ANARCHY RIFE

News Received That the Republic of San Salvador

IS IN VERY BAD SHAPE.

The President is Powerless to Control Affairs.

A Cabinet Made Up of Heterogeneous Elements—The Police Searching For a Desperado—Shot His Brother Under Circumstances of Great Cruelty.

CITY OF MEXICO, Mex., July 30.—Private advices from the Republic of San Salvador state that the country is on the verge of anarchy, there no longer being any protection to life or property. Murders are committed with impunity. President Gutierrez is unequal to the position and the cabinet is made up of heterogeneous elements, including fervent Catholics, rampant atheists, agnostics, free masons, liberals and conservatives, who pull in all directions, while Gutierrez looks helplessly on. The police are searching for Francisco Bachez, who recently ran amuck through the streets of the capital shooting right and left and killing instantly worthy citizens. Not finding Bachez in his house the police wantonly killed his brother under circumstances of great cruelty.

ARMED TROOPS

On Their Way to Union Pass to Head Off Hostiles Who Might be on the Rampage.

LONDON, Wyo., July 30.—Fifty thoroughly armed and equipped horsemen have gone to Big Wind river. They were to be joined by thirty-five mounted men at Horse Creek, and will pick up such recruits as may be found along the route. Their destination is the vicinity of Union Pass, so they might head off any hostilities who should come through any of the passes leading from Jackson's Hole. Frank Lowe, guide and Indian fighter, reports twenty Bannocks camped in Attle Paspagie canyon, nineteen miles directly south of this city. He said they were on hostile mission, simply skulking around the mountains to get out of harm's way and doubtless with an eye to future business.

A GOOD-SIZED STORY.

A Cave Said to Have Been Discovered and Between 300 and 400 Skeletons Therein.

YUMA, Ariz., July 30.—On white river, eight miles from Camp Apache, has been found a remarkable cave. For six hundred feet of the distance, explorers have been obliged to crawl on hands and knees, using candles and bullseye lanterns for light. They found between 300 and 400 human skeletons indicating the remains of persons who perhaps had been smothered to death by smoke long years ago. Some of them were in crevices just large enough to admit a human body. The skeletons are of various sizes, some being very small. The skulls are of brown color with the exception of a few that are white.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 30.—Emmett Divers, the colored man who was brought here several days ago from Hannibal, to escape lynching for the outrage and murder of Mrs. Cain, near Fulton last Tuesday, has confessed. He said he outraged her and then cut her throat eight times. Divers went into the bloody details of the crime without an emotion, other than to smile at times.

CHELSEA, Mass., July 30.—Henry G. Clark, 17 years old, was in court this morning charged with breaking and entering. The case was continued to permit the fire marshal to prefer more serious charges against him. By his own confession the boy is one of the most dangerous fire bugs in Massachusetts. Last spring he set fires that caused the loss of more than $50,000.

And Faithful Dan Spent Monday Fishing on Buzzard's Bay.

George Gephart Has Been Held by Order of the Authorities at Indianapolis, Suspected of Killing His Own Child.

DOWAGIAC, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—George Gephart, who came here last week with the remains of his little daughter, Ida, from Indianapolis, Ind., for interment, is suspected of murdering his own little daughter. By order of the police from Indianapolis he is now being held in custody. The news has caused a sensation, as Mr. Gephart was known as an honest and upright man. It is known that he was very severe and often cruel to his children and it is thought he struck the child in a fit of rage and that the blow proved fatal. It is thought that he then cut the little 3-year-old girl all in pieces, secreting the remains in an old tool chest. Gephart will be taken at once to Indianapolis to answer the charge of murder.

WATERTOWN, N. Y., July 30.—Mrs. Hattie Covey, wife of Burt Covey, a resident of Jayville, eloped June 25 with John Kirch, superintendent of a saw mill, leaving one child. Kirch left a wife and four children. He went to Michigan, but becoming dissatisfied, Mrs. Covey returned home Saturday night. She was told to leave town by the first train Monday morning and did so, going to Harrisonville for legal advice. Armed with a peace warrant she returned to Jayville where her parents reside and was met at the depot by a crowd of men, women and boys, who stripped her of her clothing and bruised her so badly she may die.

CLASH WAS COSTLY.

Insurgents Killed by Spanish Troops in Cuba.

HAVANA, July 30.—Bands of insurgents under command of Jose Maceo and Luis Bonet, attacked a detachment of troops at Tiarraba, Sunday, July 28. After hours of hard fighting the insurgents were obliged to retire. Of the Spanish soldiers two were wounded. The insurgents left six dead on the field. At night the insurgents kept up a desultory fire upon the fort and burned several houses. On Monday Col. Segura arrived with reinforcements before which the insurgents retreated.

A DISCOVERY.

It Is Discovered that Many are Evading Extradition by a New Process.

WASHINGTON, D. C., July 30.—The state department has discovered criminals from the United States to Mexico, evading extradition by a new process. As soon as they reach the Mexican soil they purchase real estate and elect to become Mexican citizens. Under the Mexican law this is sufficient to make them citizens and under the treaty that country is not bound to surrender our citizens in answer to the demand for extradition.

THE OLD FLAG

Ex-President Harrison's Very Touching Tribute

TO THE STARS AND STRIPES.

A Theme That Never Grows Cold.

It is a Deep Sentiment That Possesses Us—What the Flag Reminds Us of and Stands for—Whoever Lifts His Hand Against It Falls at Once—An Eloquent and Patriotic Speech.

OLD FORGE, N. Y., July 30.—An American flag was raised in front of the Old Forge Hotel here Saturday, and Gen. Harrison talked patriotism for ten minutes to 150 men and women.

The ex-president spoke as follows:

"Mr. President and Neighbors and Friends: I congratulate you upon the success which has attended this patriotic effort. You have triumphed over all conditions. I thought for a time this morning that you would postpone to a more auspicious day the raising of this handsome flag at Old Forge."

"And after all, this beautiful emblem of liberty never shines so well as when its background is dark. It has been loved best when the clouds were low. In those dark days in its early history, when it seemed that the God in whom our fathers trusted had forsaken them; when their resources seemed almost spent and their indomitable valor to have reached its last attainment, the flag which is the first emblem of our organization for free government shone so brightly and so luminously and so drew the heart of men and the love and prayers of women, that in all that dark day we were lifted out of the valley of despair and defeat to a glorious consummation, and to a victory that surprised the world."

In the serious days of our later conflict for the integrity of the union, men seemed to love the flag most when fortune was most against it. In the dark days of '63, when every circumstance of almost every campaign seemed to be adverse, when Kirby Smith had penetrated the Cumberland Gap and was threatening the Ohio river cities; when Buell was returning unsuccessful through Alabama; when McClellan seemed to be rendered powerless in the Peninsula—in that time, when the clouds hung very low, there was revealed another triumph of the national spirit and another illustration of the indomitable patriotism of our population. For just at that time when Mr. Lincoln's call came for 500,000 volunteers, though there seemed to be for a time a rest and pause, yet it was only the rest which the water makes before it leaps over Niagara. That call was responded to with a magnificent impulse and quickness that again surprised the world and renewed the heart and courage of that noble man who presided over the destinies of our country; and again these clouds were lifted with the pledge that in no time of darkness would we forsake the flag."

What it Stands For.

"That flag stands to us for a sentiment for institutions. In itself, in the combination of colors that made it, in the bunting or silk of which it is made, there is nothing. It is that it stands for that which makes it dear to us. It is not this land of ours, wide, rich and rich as it is, it is not this mountain scenery that opens to us here, these wonderful peaks, these great lakes, these enticing summer grounds, nor the great plains of the west, where, while we rest, the farmer is pushing the plow to fill the granaries that can feed the world; it is not this stretch of land, these rivers and mountains and plains; it is not the product of these; it is not Wall street; it is not the Produce Exchange; it is not bulk meats; it is not things that have bulk. It is something that lives in the heart; it is an enshrined sentiment that makes this flag, and it stands for a glorious history."

We Look Upon It.

"We look upon that flag and we think of Bunker Hill, and we see the gallant band expending the last charge of ammunition and battling with clubbed muskets over the breastworks and retreating at last defeated; yet, as some one said, Britton won the victory that day and we kept the hill. It speaks to us of Lexington and Concord, of Valley Forge, of Saratoga, of Yorktown, and of all those great achievements. We look upon it and think of Washington. We look again and see the benign face of Abraham Lincoln. We look again and Grant and Sherman and Sheridan are revealed to us. We see upon its folds the story of Vicksburg and Chickamauga and Chattanooga, of Gettysburg and Appomattox. It is the story that is woven into it that makes it precious to us; it is that that it inspires. It is that for which it stands—a union of states, a government of the people, for they made it; by the people, for they conduct it; and for the people, for it has missed its object if it does not accomplish their good."

"It stands for a government of law for a civil organization; for a constitution that has assigned powers. It stands for the thought that our people have pledged their loyalty to a system of laws of their own making, subject to be changed by them; but, while they are laws, demanding the allegiance of every man and woman in the country."

What Can Any Man Do?

"It is because we have learned the lesson that it seems to me the Anglo-Saxon people, or a people that has been wrought out of the various contributions that have come to these shores, the only people in the world that understand what it is to give the allegiance of the mind and of the heart to the civil institutions and to men."

"What can any man do against that"

TRIED TO KILL HIMSELF.

Mathias Van Tyne Becomes Tired of Life—He Was Found Unconscious Today.

Mathias Van Tyne, 76 years of age, and living with his son at 117 Myrtle street, tried to commit suicide Monday night. He was found very ill in his room early this morning. Dr. McKibbin was called and he found symptoms of morphine poisoning. A white powder was found on the floor closely resembling that drug. He was just conscious at 6 o'clock this morning, and was not expected to live. He has tried to do the same act before. Mr. VanTyne thought his family was not treating him right.

PAW PAW.

A Pleasant Social Event—Joint Birthdays Celebrated.

PAW PAW, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—A very pleasant social event transpired here Saturday evening, the occasion being the celebration of the joint birthdays of Rev. Theodore Brooks and his wife, Mrs. Helen M. Brooks. The latter was 70 years of age on the 13th inst., and the former 75 on the 27th. Mr. Brooks has been a resident of this place for some years, was formerly pastor of the Christian church here, is well known and highly respected by all and his wife is equally as great a favorite among the people. Upwards of a hundred friends and neighbors, many of them members of his former congregation, assembled at their residence where a very pleasant evening was passed. Ice cream and other light refreshments were served and some valuable presents left with the worthy couple as testimonials of regard and esteem.

Elder Brooks, who was born in New York, passed his earlier manhood in the profession of a teacher, but has been in the ministry for the past forty years, and the worthy couple have been married for nearly as long. The elder is a unique character, very original in his speech and conduct, fond of a joke and equally fond of a square meal, has a kind word for everybody, both great and small, rich and poor, and is universally liked, being as popular with those outside of the church as with those within it. He was raised a Presbyterian, but his investigations early led him to take membership with the Disciples and he has been a life long champion and an able defender of the tenets of that church. Unlike most of its members, while not conceding its correctness, he rather gloried in being called a Campbellite, regarding Alexander Campbell as the great exponent of the doctrine of Christian unity on the foundation of the Bible and the Bible only. Well educated, thoroughly versed in the theological doctrines of the various denominations, a pleasant speaker, having a wonderful command of language, a vivid imagination enabling him to paint vivid word-pictures and of a logical mind, he has for many years been an eloquent and convincing preacher of the gospel, which has exemplified in his daily life as well as as faithfully as by his efficient labors in the pulpit. He and his estimable wife have a host of friends who all unite in wishing a pleasant journey down the hill of life, and hope they may yet be spared to this community for many years to come.

CLINGING TO THE CRAFTS

The Gale Came Without Any Warning.

Fears that Small Boats Have Been Lost.—Searching for a Steam Yacht—The Names of the Parties on Board—Steamer Republic Sunk Near Cleveland—Marine Disasters.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30.—A sudden wind storm last night played havoc with small boats on the lake in this vicinity. With the wind blowing forty miles an hour and every wave dashing over him, Andrew Keen of Bay View, clung to the bottom of a capsized sailboat for nearly two hours before he could be rescued. The storm came entirely without warning and it is feared some of the many craft on the lake may have met with disaster. A heavy sea is running up the lake.

Tugs Out Searching.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30.—Tugs are searching the bay for the yacht Sunbeam from Canada, which should be near this port on the way to Chicago to participate in the regatta there. She sailed out of Green Bay yesterday afternoon and her owner, Joseph English, who came here several days ago to await her arrival, looking for her early this morning. It is reported the sand scow John Eggert is wrecked in the neighborhood of Whitefish bay and one man lost. Half a dozen tugs have been out for hours but have so far found no wreck. Later Account.—During a heavy gale this morning, the schooner Republic in tow of the steam barge Swallow, coal laden, became water logged and sank in forty feet of water, two miles off this port. The tug Cascade of this port succeeded in rescuing all the crew of eight men who were clinging to the rigging. The schooner and cargo will probably be a total loss. Owned by E. E. Ewing, St. Clair.

Not Alarmed.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., July 30.—Commodore Englis, of the Canadian yacht Sunbeam, concerning the safety of which fears are rife since last evening when the squall swept down from the northwest, says he is not at all alarmed. There is no certainty that the yacht was out when the storm broke.

LATER.—A special from Two Rivers says that the captain of the schooner Hawthorne states he saw a black sloop about six miles north of Two Rivers. She was all right when he saw her.

GEORGE THOMAS GONE.

His Books Do Not Seem to Be Quite Right.

George Thomas, a prominent member of the local Cigar-makers' union, and for years an employee of the Lillies' Cigar company, has disappeared, together with an acquaintance named Fred Durette.

Thomas was once the steadiest cigar-maker in the shop, enjoying the best of wages and having the fullest confidence of fellow workmen. But within the past month he has been falling from grace in a way that has astonished his best friends, to say nothing of his wife and family. He has a pretty wife and a family of four children. Mrs. Thomas says that her husband and herself have had several misunderstandings over his recent shiftlessness and his propensity to spend his money foolishly. He lost his job at the cigar company and has sought for work in vain in this city.

"Last week he came to the conclusion," continued Mrs. Thomas, "that it would be better for him to go away and seek work." He left last Saturday evening with the intention of first going to Hillsdale to visit his grandmother and then to Chicago, where he had two uncles in business. It was his intention not to go away permanently and to provide for his family in the same way that he always has.

Mrs. Thomas said she had heard nothing of the rumor, to the effect that her husband had been accompanied by a woman, though she admitted he had caused her a good deal of trouble by keeping company with other girls.

At the workshop of the Lillie Cigar company it was learned that Mr. Thomas had, about three weeks ago, been made financial secretary of the local Cigar-makers' union. After it was learned that he had "skipped" his books were examined and a shortage of $65 was found. This money belongs to the International Cigar-makers' union.

Fred Durette, Mr. Thomas' companion, has been a clerk at the meat market of G. W. Cranmer, 321 east North street, and was a boarder at the latter's home. Saturday afternoon he was paid his week's wages and told the proprietor that he was going up town. Instead he walked over to his boarding place, went to his room and let all of his belongings down to the ground from the window by a rope. He then told Mrs. Cranmer that he was going fishing, at the same time putting a fish pole on his shoulder. It was the last the Cranmers saw of him. Mrs. Cranmer afterwards went to his room and saw the rope, and the room bare of all of his belongings. It was afterwards found that he had skipped with Mr. Thomas to Chicago.

RECORD OF HER STAR PLAYERS

One to Make the Heart of the Ball Crank Rejoice.

She is Also Well Up in the Batting List—Parshall Will Not Substitute the Page Fence Giants—The Results of Yesterday's League Games and Other Sporting News.

President Mumby furnishes the Telegraph with the following averages of the Kalamazoo players. For the reason that some of the official scorers have not filed their scores and because many scores have been returned for correction, the averages are not up to date, but as shown below will be of interest to baseball lovers. Kalamazoo stands third in batting average, Lansing leading with an average of .352 with Adrian second at .338. Shields leads the league in batting with an average of .407. McHovever second, .416. Great Bicycle Races at Mansfield.

MANSFIELD, O., July 30.—(Special.)—The best races of this season's national circuit were held here yesterday. The half mile open was a crack-a-jack. The first five men finished in a bunch with not two feet difference between the first and fifth man. Titus was first across the line, with Dr. Brown two inches behind him. Ziegler was third by not over an inch and Gardiner in the fourth position was not a single wheel length ahead of Coulter. Coulter rode an exhibition mile and succeeded in breaking the record. He made it in 1:55.35, the fastest time for an exhibition mile.

The mile open was as exciting as the half mile. Bald, Gardiner, Bliss, Callahan, Cooper, Eddy, Coulter, Scott, Bigsby and Davidson qualified for the final heat. Van Herrick and Lund paced on a tandem. Bliss jumped at the shot of the pistol, taking the pole and the rear wheel of the tandem. The pace was terrific. At the three-quarter mark the tandem dropped out and down the stretch the riders flew, making the turn in a bunch. Bliss was still in the lead, and hump as he would Bald couldn't catch him, but twenty yards from the finish Gardiner came up with a fearful rush and won. Bliss second, Bald third, Eddy fourth, Callahan fifth and Coulter sixth. Summaries:

One mile open, class B: First heat, Bald won, A. Callahan second, Tom Eddy third, Coulter fourth, Davidson fifth, time, 2:29. Second heat, Gardiner won, Bliss second, Cooper third, Scott fourth, Rigby fifth, time, 2:40.35. Final heat, Gardiner won, Bliss second, Bald third, Eddy fourth, Callahan fifth, time, 2:37.45.

One-half mile open, class B: Titus won, Brown second, Zeigler third, Gardiner fourth, Coulter fifth, time, 1:30.15.

Two-mile handicap, class B: L. C. Johnson (80 yards) won, Murphy (40 yards) second, Rigby (100 yards) third, Kiser (100 yards) fourth, time, 4:38.

Parshall Will Not Do It.

It is reported by a man who claims to be on the inside that Manager Parshall has a great scheme on hand. It is no more or less than to substitute the Page Fence Giants, who are under contract with him to go to Europe, together with a couple of the Cuban Giants team, for the present team now representing Lansing in the state league, and finish the season with them. The man who gave out this startling information said the change was starting to be made at once.

Manager Parshall denies in toto the rumor that he will disband the Lansing team and finish the season with the Page Fence Giants. Mr. Parshall arrived in the city late last night and left early this morning, but he found time to read the Republican and write a letter denying the rumor as published last night.—Lansing Republican.

GRAND, BRILLIANT KIRMESS

The Skirt Dance by a Professional was Stopped.

The Music Forbidden to Proceed—An Act That was Not Down on the Program—St. Joseph's Society Shocked—The Rest of the Program was Proper and Proceeded Propriously.

ST. JOSEPH, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—This place was treated to a spectacular production last Friday night, that has proved the sensation of the hour. It was the kermess and was given for the benefit of the ladies of the Congregational society.

The fête opened at 8:15 p. m., displaying the pretty garland of girls that make up the merry toganagers, who skipped, glided and posed the graceful figures in dainty and small costumes reproduced from "Shirley" being made with close fitting coat and toboggan caps bordered with white swansdown and skirts cut in deep fringe that fell over swan tipped boots.

The personnel was Misses Peterson, Kerick, Dickinson, Husted, Potter, Fyfe, Williams, Walker, Brown, Rosenberg, Balder, Wilson, Clark, Lessing, Wilson, Force and Hagar. It was a beautiful scene and very suggestive as well as extremely well rendered by the little ladies who covered themselves with glory and received a round of well merited applause.

Next in Turn.

Next came that time honored creation, the May festival, some form of which is ever present upon the spectacular stage and which never fails to please. The representation of the merry May carnival was lovely beyond description. It was rendered by a bevy of wee little tots of surpassing loveliness and cuteness dressed in picturesque Kate Greenway and Lord Fauntleroy costumes and their cute bows.

The personnel in the carnival was Celia Burkhard, Irene Gillette, Hazel Morton, Genevieve White, Bessie Evans, Mary Balengee, May Barlow, Gertie Melshomer, Stuart Barlow, Harold Fyfe, Clinton Davis, Nathan Konold, Nathan Preston, Olive Collins, Jay Gard.

One of the most beautiful and graceful creations ever beheld by any audience was the Phantom Minnet gracefully rendered by Misses Zekind, Shear, Prida, Canavan, Donaldson, King and Mesdames Schultz and Church.

In the lawn tennis, the personnel was Flossie Stevens, Claribel Rice, Kattie Ray, Jennie Doyle, Martha Agnew, Florence Mulliken, Fairy Rife, Sidney Zekind, Russell Brown, Charlie Davis, Lee Carlton, Stanley Fyfe, Clifford Cogan, Bennie King and Wynn Mulliken.

In the Minds of Some.

In the minds of some the prettiest creation of the kermess was the priestess divinement of Misses Zekind, Canaval, Cogan, "Prick, Sullivan, Berry, Hutchinson, Greening, Shearer and Wilkinson.

The solo butterflies, Flossie Stevens and artistic perfection. This was one of the prettiest conceptions in the whole spectacular play. Personnel, Misses Stella Risto, Jessie Risto, Florence Barlow, Nettie Risto, Eva Moilagen, Clara Hudson, Pansy Weaver, Alice Simmonds, Rose Hosbain, Grace Lewis, Ina Beacraft, Edith Foltz, Florence Sprague, May Freund, Margaret Canavan, Mary Burkhard, Rosie Rosenberg, Jennie Ballengee, Eva Huntsinger, Eva Danforth.

The Little Tambourine players kept admiring the time and step to the music and acquitted themselves well. Personnel, Misses Jennie Doyle, Florence Rice, Claribel Rice, Florence Mulliken, Florence Stevens, Fairy Rife, Kattie Ray, Mabel Gard, Grace Forbes, Elsie Wallace, Gladys Montion, Maud Creston, Edie Parker, Martha Agnew.

Miss Barnes, a professional dancer of New York, who is visiting here, consented to dance for them. Her first dance gave such satisfaction that she was recalled three times. Miss Barnes was on the program for a skirt dance, but when the time came the church ladies would not allow it to go on. In carrying out the resolution they took the instruments away from the orchestra and caused a general commotion on the stage, so that the entertainment was stopped.

The kermess was given under the direction of Mrs. Hattie McCall Travis.

FIRES FROM SPARKS.

The Farmers Between Lawrence and South Haven are Suffering From Fires Set by Locomotive Sparks.

LAWRENCE, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—Farmers between this point and the eastern terminus of the S. H. & E. R. R. are almost frenzied with rage. Scarcely a day passes but sparks from the locomotives on that line of road, kindle fires which prove more or less destructive and annoy the citizens very much. Fences have been swept away and fields blackened until the whole stretch of country lying between Lawrence and South Haven is a blackened, charred waste. But the last and most exasperating of all occurred the 24th, when the township cemetery was the victim of the dread destroyer. Before assistance could arrive the entire fence along one side was burned up and fully one-half the lot burned over. Every speck of grass and little shrub is as dry as tinder. A spark no sooner lights than the flames are traveling with the wind. Buildings in Lawrence along the track narrowly escaped similar destruction Saturday.

CONSTANTINE.

Personal News—Visitors From Hastings—Hotel Changes Hands.

CONSTANTINE, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—The Misses Towseley, Union City, are visiting their brother at the home of R. F. Watkins. Miss Edith Messenger of Hastings is the guest of her aunt, Mrs. E. Kennedy. The Fire company with their families have a basket picnic at Klinger's lake today. The Hotel Barry has changed hands and will hereafter be run by Mr. John Foster, who formerly run the Red-light restaurant.

THE OLD FLAG.

flag? Let him have mounted ever so high upon the roll of honor, left him have entranced himself ever so strongly in the affections of the people—if he lifts his hand against that flag he falls at once. He can lead no following against it or against our free institutions. We have not forgotten as a people to esteem and to honor greatness in men. We have a veneration, deep, abiding and fervent for the great men who have served this country, but we love them because they have served it—none of them have ever been so great that we could steal away the hearts of people from their love of it.

"We have in this at once the explanation and guarantee of the permanence of our civil institutions. Why is it that the South American countries that have initiated our example and organized Republican governments have been so racked and tortured with revolutions? It is because they have not learned this great lesson—to give their affections and allegiance to institutions, to a constitution, and to a man. In their impetuosity, in their wild, unregulated thoughts of liberty, they follow a cockade, and are continually led into revolution.

"I congratulate you, my countrymen, that it had become our settled habit to give our love to institutions—to the institutions for which that beautiful emblem stands. Again I congratulate you that you have lifted here in this gateway to this beautiful chain of lakes this emblem that shall greet the coming and the going of the tourist, and I beg to express my gratification at having been permitted to participate in these ceremonies, and to thank you for your generous and kind attention."

THREE RIVERS.

Personal News—Difficulty With a Fence—Arrested by a Game Warden.

THREE RIVERS, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—Mrs. A. H. Renzenhouse left yesterday for a visit with friends at Holland, Mich. Mrs. C. Seland of the third ward is visiting in Otsego, the guest of her daughter Mrs. Charles Bateman. Mrs. C. E. Sears of Chillicothe, O., is in Three Rivers looking after her property and business interests. Rev. P. C. Lee and family returned yesterday from their two weeks' camping trip to Coney lake. Henry Eddy, living north west of this place, was arrested recently on charges by the game warden, relative to illegal fishing. His trial commenced today before Justice Barton, result not yet determined. Miss Grace Renzenhouse is at Bay View studying elocution.

Frank Newman has been having difficulty with his line fence and claims quite a strip of the street in front of his residence, which strip contains quite number of a fruit trees. Recently he undertook to fence them in and projected his fence out into the street, obstructing it, and Superintendent Herndon on investigation and authority from the council, acting with the surveyor, adjusted his line and removed the projecting part of the fence from the street. Summons to appear in response to a suit for trespass, today, before Justice Pierce was served on Superintendent Herndon. The case promises to be an interesting one as it appears the land originally belonged to Mr. Newman, who sold it for a portion of the road, others however, held out and for years the road was not completed; now however, the property owners wish the street completed further down and are selling out their interests and the case will probably be a test case of ownership of first road; interests. Mrs. F. A. Atterbury of Kalamazoo is looking after her home property in Three Rivers.

SLEEPY HOLLOW.

A New Summer Resort that is Destined to Attract Many Visitors.

LAWRENCE, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—The latest addition to Van Buren county's list of summer resorts is "Sleepy Hollow." This beautiful place is situated on the banks of Prospect lake, a beautiful sheet of water lying four miles southwest of Lawrence. Almost from time out of mind the banks of this lake have held an enchantment for lovers of nature, and this year Messrs. Baldwin and Monroe, two Lawrence capitalists have built several very neat cottages, each one with its accompanying refrigerator and free ice, cleaned up the grounds, placed pretty boats upon the lake, and made the comfort of the resort complete in many ways. The name of the place, its general appearance and air of seclusion, the extraordinary fishing, beautiful beach for bathing, and names of the cottages, all suggest rest. "Sleepy Hollow" with its cottages as follows: "Oak Glen," "The Knickerbocker," "Sunny Side," "Wolford Road," "Fisherman's Hut," and "The Wigwag" form a combination, which of itself is enough to arouse the curiosity of anyone. About ten families and quite a number of transients are now at the lake, and others are continually arriving. It rivals Kalamazoo's "Gull." The proprietors are pleased with its introduction, and so are its patrons.

WHITE PIGEON.

A Wedding of White Pigeon Parties—Illness—The First Number of the Rally Day Herald.

WHITE PIGEON, Mich., July 30.—(Special.)—Harry Straw and Miss Pearl Hallett, both well-known young people of this village, were married at Constantine, July 29. Rev. Lee T. Fisher, D. D., of the Presbyterian church, has been seriously ill for several days from abscess in the head. He is now improving, and hopes are entertained for his complete recovery. The first number of the Rally Day Herald, published in the interest of Rally Day, to be held at Three Rivers, August 22, is to be issued this week, from the "Journal" office.

MICHIGAN MATTERS.

Odorous and burning oil has been struck near Allegan.

Calmet & Hecla Mining company declared a dividend of $5 a share, payable August 19.

The mills of the Diamond Match company at Ontonagon have an annual capacity of over 80,000,000 feet, and as the available white pine in this region is not estimated at over 400,000,000 feet it can be easily seen that unless logs are towed from the north shore the mills will have to be closed down within a period of four or five years.

TALK FOR THE TEA TABLE.

A small plot of grass on Balch street, catching on fire, called the department this noon. It was easily put out.

The case in Judge Peck's court against Bert Golbach charged with a thing of beauty, and his new yacht was more attractive than the loveliest pair of eyes or the sweetest mustache in the world.

Miss Kate Brennan, who is visiting her sister, in Chicago, is very ill. Her mother received a telegram yesterday stating that she was not expected to live and left for her bedside.

A farm hand named Otto Gronstedt is suing William Oliver of Alamo for wages he alleges to be due him, amounting to $145. The examination had to be conducted by means of an interpreter in Justice Wattles' court this afternoon.

HIS BIRTHDAY GIFT.

He Was Very Much Pleased Until His Eyes Were Opened.

He was neither young nor handsome, but his bank account was a thing of beauty, and his new yacht was more attractive than the loveliest pair of eyes or the sweetest mustache in the world.

He was calling upon her, and she was serenely conscious that his trap in front of the door was being enviously watched by at least two of her very dear friends.

"I hope I am not too early in calling, Miss Grace," he was saying, "but I really could not rest until I had thanked you for your beautiful birthday present. To think that you actually took the trouble to hem-stitch and embroider me a dozen handkerchiefs all yourself!"

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, don't speak of it. The only value of which my present is little gift is possessed is the fact that it is all the product of my own hands."

"Nothing could be more valuable, I am sure, and I shall treasure them always. So few young ladies are able to do such work nowadays. Now, when my first wife was living—"

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, you know you haven't a second one."

"Not yet to be sure, but I have always said that if I married again it would be a girl versed in the womanly arts in which our grandmothers were proficient."

"Why, Mr. Goldie, I—I am quite surprised! How odd that I should just happen to do that needlework for you!"

"How charming, you mean! By the way, I have named my new yacht for you."

"Oh, Mr. Goldie, is it possible?"

"Indeed it is—that is, I—I didn't wish to be too personal, so I called it The Three Graces."

"Oh, indeed! That is quite a charming idea, I am sure."

"Yes, it was Miss Dora's idea. I had intended at first to call it simply the Grace. Quite fanciful of Miss Dora, was it not?"

"Yes, but dear Dora always did excel in fancy rather than fact."

"Ah? By the way, I fear you are quite a busy person, Miss Grace."

"Yes, I am always busy from morning to night."

"Indeed, I had hoped that you would go for a sail with me frequently, but if you are so busy, perhaps—"

"Oh, I—I think every one needs some recreation, don't you?"

"Quite so. And I cannot have you spoiling your pretty eyes even over that exquisite needlework. You must manage to go often. I only wish that we might sail on through—why, good morning, Miss Dora."

"Is that you, Dora? I didn't hear you ring the bell."

"I didn't dare. The front door was open, so I came right in. Your mother wanted me to sit with her, but I told her that I was dying to see you. Isn't Grace's mother lovely, Mr. Goldie? I think it was just too sweet of her to embroider and hem-stitch all those lovely handkerchiefs for Grace to give you on your birthday. Why, are you going already? Well, I think I must go too. I had forgotten that our old fashioned Dutch society meets this afternoon. —Chicago Times-Herald.

WANTED INFORMATION.

But His Call Was Made a Little Late in the Day.

There was a loud, persistent knocking heard at the front door of a house on the North Side. The hour was late, and it took some time to rouse the inmates, but a second story window was opened at last, a night cap head was thrust out, and a querulous voice inquired:

"Who's there?"

"Is this where Mrs. Gagsby lives?"

"Yes; what do you want?"

"I want to ask you—"

"Who are you?"

"I'm a reporter for The Daily Bread."

"This is a pretty time of night to go around disturbing people that are trying to sleep."

"I beg your pardon, madam, but we have to do this sort of thing sometimes. I don't like it any better than you do, but I've got to make my living. I won't detain you long. I'm on track of a scoop, and—"

"Whose scoop?"

"A scoop on the other papers. I learned by accident a few hours ago in the course of a conversation with a friend that you had an exciting adventure with a burglar who broke into your house?"

"See here, young man—"

"Beg pardon, Mrs. Gagsby, but if an account of the affair gets into the papers you would rather it got in correctly, wouldn't you?"

"Yes, but—"

"And you can't keep a thing of that kind out of the papers. They'll get hold of it somehow. They always do. I was told that you were waked out of a sound sleep by hearing a window raised softly; that you saw a man put his hand in and grasp the window sill as if to draw himself inside, and that you picked up a hatchet and slipped along the wall to the window. Is that right?"

"Yes, but—"

"I understand your natural dislike of newspaper notoriety. Mrs. Gagsby, but you can't suppress an adventure of this kind. You raised the hatchet and brought it down on his fingers with all your force, completely severing three of them from the hand. With a howl of pain and dismay the baffled villain fled. You picked up the fingers. Is that correct?"

"Is it, but—"

"Beg pardon, madam, but time presses. May I ask you to let me have those severed fingers? They will be of the utmost importance, you understand, in furnishing a clue."

"The fingers? I threw them away long ago."

"You did?"

"Yes; do you suppose I wanted to keep them forever?"

"Why, when was it this thing happened?"

"Eleven years ago."—Chicago Tribune.

The Man and the Maid.

"Where are you going, young man?" cried the maid.

"I'm going a-calling, miss," he said.

"May I go with you, young man?" asked the maid.

"Why, ye-es, if you feel like it, miss," he said.

"But why do I find you like man arrayed?"

"Oh, knickers are comfy, young man," she said.

"But the boys will chevy you, miss, I'm afraid."

"What does that matter, young man?" she said.

"Are you a scorchler, young man?" asked the maid.

"No, nothing so vulgar, fair miss," he said.

"Then I don't think much of you," mocked the maid.

"Neither does 'Arry, sweet miss," he said.

"What is your ideal, young man?" said the maid.

"A womanly woman, fair miss," he said.

"Then I can't marry you, sir," cried the maid.

"Thank heaven for that, manly miss," he said.

A RETURN VISIT.

"I am afraid," said Inspector Briggs as he stood inside Albert Steinhorn's room, "that Red Riding Hood is not equal to the task of teaching her grandmother to suck eggs."

"You're a dear, good fellow," said Goringe. "The strain is off now. I have been treating you somewhat hardly, trying your temper perhaps. But you'll forgive me, I know. And now I'll disclose my secret thoughts to you. But first and foremost take this. The evidence you shall give in this case shall be the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

RICHLAND.

A Disastrous Fire—Personal News—Sunday Services—Gone to Boston with Wool.

RICHLAND, Mich., July 29.—(Special.)—The rains have done little good as yet in reviving pastures. Stock is still fed from the winter's supply at the barns of the farmer....On Friday afternoon a spark from the chimney set on fire the grass in front of the barn on Mrs. Frank Simon's place and soon the barn was in flames.

Mrs. Charles Brigham and daughter, who reside upon the place saw the fire and only succeeded in getting their horse from the barn. The barn and contents, consisting of seven tons of hay, several hundred bushels of rye and wheat and a number of farm implements was consumed and is a total loss, not being insured. The fire spread from the barn into the adjacent field, which were as dry as tinder, and being fanned by the brisk breeze, started for northern Michigan, and but for the timely arrival of a large number of men and teams with plows, would have spread over a large tract of country. As it was, it was necessary to plow a wide back furrow far in advance of the flames in order to check them. The flames devastated before they were subdued, a considerable tract of land, consuming fences and forests, and left in their track a blackened waste. The fire burned several hours and it was a hard struggle to conquer it. Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Brigham lost about all their personal property.

Rev. Milton Bradley and daughter are still enjoying the scenes of northern Michigan....Rev. Dr. Marsh and family take a month's vacation, going north on Tuesday. There will be no morning service in the Presbyterian church until the first Sabbath in September....Dr. James Rankin and his friend Dr. Wood of Chicago, are the guests of Dr. Rankin's parents, Dr. and Mrs. J. M. Rankin. Dr. Wood will return to Chicago in a few days. Dr. Rankin will remain here for his vacation....The I. O. O. F. lodge of Richland joined their brother Odd Fellows in the picnic at Gull lake on Thursday. The attendance reached up into the thousands and Gull lake was alive with all kinds of craft filled with people enjoying the lovely day....There are over 100 steam, sail and other kinds of boats upon the lake. Twelve of the number are steamers, carrying from ten to 100 people each....Frank Cash's wife and children of New York City are the guests of Mr. and Mrs. H. F. Cash....Miss Emily Gay of Kansas City is visiting her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Evers....G. M. Evers is in Boston with twelve ear loads of wool.

Women on Wheels.
There is a great diversity of opinion as to whether woman is riding on wheels. Is she riding to salvation and freedom or to the devil and perdition? There is a vast amount of testimony, much of it drawn from experience, on both sides of the question. It depends a great deal, as in the case of whether or not a college education pays, upon the woman in the case, and the way she rides. As a matter of outdoor exercise and recreation it is a boon to woman—like horseback riding or walking or playing tennis. And that woman is fortunate who can leave her household duties to others, or let them go altogether and mount a wheel for a ride in the country. That the woman on a bicycle is more likely to be immoral or immodest than one who is not, is all bosh. A woman's a woman for all that, and it does not require a wheel for her to be saved or to be lost.

If a woman wants to ride a bicycle, wear bloomers or short skirts, and indulge in recreation just as a man, why in heaven's name let her? She is just as lovable just as pure and just as respectable when exercising her muscles, building up her constitution and breathing the outdoor air as when housed up like a hot house plant or cultivating her heels in a hot ball room, clad in a paucity of shoulder gear.

Let the women of the day have more freedom within reasonable limits. Freedom from too much care, and right to appear in the open air clad in comfortable costumes without being an object of suspicion in the minds of the Mrs. Grundys. Is doubtless all sensible woman ask for. There is reason in all things; and the good sense of the modern woman on a wheel should, and doubtless will prevent her, from making what is now a virtue, a vice.

The temperance people of Valparaiso, Ind., are preparing to fight the saloons. A movement is on foot to organize a Good Citizens' league, and next Sunday union services for that purpose will be held, when S. E. Nicholson, author of the Nicholson bill, will make an address. The prohibitionists will have women call on every voter and try to persuade them to sign remonstrances against all saloon keepers who apply for a license at the September term of court.

The Chicago Inter-Ocean has changed its tune most decidedly on the silver question. Six months ago it was an ardent advocate of the policy laid down by Coin in his yellow covered book. Today it questions the advisability of plunging this country into free silver without the cooperation of other countries. The Inter-Ocean will come out all right in time, and finally land on safe side of the fence.

The strikers at the Champion mine, Ne-gawee, Mich., have been paid off with the notification that the mine will remain closed for an indefinite period. A number of women were on guard at the mines to see that none of the strikers went to confer with the officials. The managers say their offer made Saturday was their ultimatum. Thus it does not look as if the strike was a big success.

The famous Harve-Harvey debate is all over, but Harvey did not answer the question: "Is it safe for the United States to inaugurate the free coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1 without waiting for the cooperation of other nations?"

Ex-President Harrison's grand tribute to the old flag, made in a speech delivered in front of the Old Forge Hotel at Old Forge, N. Y., last Saturday, will be read with intense interest by all. It is patriotic and soul-stirring.

The real trouble with those Bannock Indians is probably that they are hungry and are fighting and foraging to keep from starving to death. The old warriors who fight for blood alone are back numbers.

of commons is getting to be as large and unwieldy as the Republican majority in the last state house of representatives.

It would be a blessing to Illinois and the country if Altgeld's special legislature would adjourn.

Murderer Holmes has furnished an immense amount of good material for the newspapers.

Bloomers, like ball costumes, can be properly worn in their appropriate places.

A Dry Comparison.
Detroit Journal: New York city was as dry yesterday as a joint debate on the silver question.

We Hope Not.
Bay City Tribune: Of course Mary Lease is reckless, but she has no intention of moving to Chicago.

His Best Speech.
Muskegon Chronicle: Gov. Altgeld has just made one speech for which we can all laugh. He says he will "retire permanently from politics."

NOTES BY THE WAY.

The Callahan lion, Claude, in New York, which distinguished itself by attacking a burglar who broke into its master's house in Bridgeport, Conn., and later bit a glazier who came to replace the window the burglar jumped through, has made another bid for notoriety. Monday it saved the life of a peddler who was being attacked by a ferocious dog, Claude, for a time, was employed as an advertisement in a dry goods store, where it was tied to the glove counter. One day it ate up a box of gloves. Then the storekeeper decided it was dangerous and sent it back to Mrs. Callahan. It was kept in the cellar until a few days ago, when it was found her fruit trees were being robbed by small boys. A peddler named Ezra Batram, but better known as the "old egg man," is the butt of the boys of Bridgeport on account of his eccentricities. They followed him and stoned him. Monday while he was in front of the Callahan mansion with a basket of eggs the youngsters induced a ferocious mastiff to attack him. The dog sprang at the poor old man, who pelted it with eggs until he had none left, but without frightening it off. Encouraged by the boys the mastiff seized the unfortunate peddler by the shoulder and knocked him down. Suddenly the sympathy of the gallant lion was aroused. It had seen the one-sided battle. It sprang over the gate and made a bold attack on the mastiff until the dog ran down the street yelping with pain. The small boys climbed up trees and crept into drain pipes in their terror. When the dog was gone the lion stood up on its hind legs, lashed its tail, and roared with elation. The old egg man held out his hand and the wild beast licked it. It turned out that the peddler once gave the lion an egg, and the creature out of gratitude saved his life. The old man said he was sure if the lion had not interfered he would have been a dead peddler.

Cats were first introduced into the treasury at Washington over a century ago, when mice were plentiful on the lower floors of the building. One night mice gnawed into fragments a quantity of bank notes and valuable papers which had been left in the vaults. Pieces of these papers were used by the mice in making nests for their young. Four cats were introduced into Uncle Sam's money vaults and turned loose the next day. Since the introduction of the feline quartet their descendants have increased to such an extent that the lower half of the treasury department is overrun with them after nightfall. There are hundreds of animals, from kittens with unopened eyes to giant and ferocious toms and Marias. They are in a perfectly wild state, and consequently do not show themselves during office hours during the day-time. It has been suggested that a tasteless poisonous compound spread upon meat should be supplied the treasury posts, which officials are anxious to get rid of now as they were the rodents of twenty-five years ago.

Prof. Stone Wiggins says the great lakes of North America are decreasing every year and the time is near at hand when the Niagara Falls will cease to be. One of the causes of the constant decrease in the volume of the great lakes is the constant wearing away of the earth and gaining a deeper bed. But the chief cause is the constant decrease in the rainfall on the southern half of the continent. The great lake region received the largest share of the rain from the great air current that runs up from the Gulf of Mexico to the lake region and then turns eastward down the valley of the Lawrence. Twenty-five years ago this great east moving current was loaded with vapor and highly charged with electricity from the time it left the mouth of the Mississippi till it reaches the mouth of the St. Lawrence. Now the telegraph and telephone wires that form a wire netting across its path over the western states conduct off its electric energy, and not only is the vapor it contains precipitated in those regions, but it is unable to reload itself with vapor on reaching the great lakes. There is no electricity in the air, and without it the humidity will not rise.

At the grave of ex-Gov. E. B. Winans, at the village of Hamburg, C. W. Hills of Jackson last week erected a massive and imposing monument of Barre granite. The monument is of modest design, but large and solid, typifying the character of the man at whose grave it stands. It is composed of a huge block of rock-faced granite or die, resting on a base of the same material, though of larger dimensions. On the face of the die, in large, finely polished letters in relief, is the word "Winans," and at one end of the die appears the letter "W" also in relief.

MUNYON PRAYED FOR.

A Prominent Divine Invokes God's Blessing on the Eminent Professor.

He Declares the Remedies are Worth Their Weight in Gold.

Rev. W. E. Andrews, of Westfield, Mass., writes: "I wish to add my testimony in favor of Munyon's Homeopathic Home Remedies to the mass that has already been published. I have used the Cold Cure, Dyspepsia, Cure, Nerve Cure and Headache Cure in my family with perfect satisfaction. These remedies are worth their weight in gold. In my family they have cured the worst cases of cold in one day, and dyspepsia of seven years standing was cured with three vials of the Dyspepsia Cure. I have had very severe headaches, which were driven away in half an hour by the Headache Cure. My wife suffered greatly from sleeplessness, and one vial of Nerve Cure gave her perfect relief. I sincerely pray God's blessing upon the proprietors of such valuable remedies."

Munyon's Stomach and Dyspepsia Cure affords relief to indigestion and stomach troubles such as constipation, rising of food, distress after eating, bloating of the stomach, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath and all affections of the heart caused by indigestion. It soothes, heats and invigorates stomachs that have been weakened by overeating, or where the lining of the stomach has been impaired by physic and injurious medicines. Price, 25 cents.

Munyon's Homeopathic Home Remedy Company, of Philadelphia, put up specifics for nearly every disease, which are sold by all druggists, mostly for 25 cents a bottle.

Those who are in doubt as to the nature of their disease should address Professor Munyon, 1305 Arch street, Philadelphia, giving full symptoms of their disease. Professor Munyon will carefully diagnose the case and give you the benefit of his advice absolutely free of all charge. The Remedies will be sent to any address on receipt of retail price.

Literary Notes.
The Telegraph has received a copy of the twenty-third volume of the Michigan Gazetteer, 1895, published by R. L. Polk & Co., Detroit. It is a perfect mine of information.

Another reply to Colin's Financial School has been written by J. A. Fraser, Jr., and Charles H. Serz, 358 Dearborn street, Chicago. It is entitled "Sound Money." It is one of the best of the many replies.

Writers for the periodicals will find many articles of practical interest to them in their work in the Author's Journal for July. Oliver Optic gives some suggestions to poets in "The Machinery of Versification."

"A Street in Suburbia" by Edwin W. Pugh is a novel cleverly conceived and well executed. It is beautifully bound and would make a nice birthday gift. Published by D. Appleton & Co., For sale by G. H. Raynor, Kalamazoo.

Miss Helen Hay, daughter of Col. John Hay, of Washington, the poet and historian, will have a humorous poem in the August number of St. Nicholas. Miss Hay's verse is called "The Merry Mongoose." It is her first contribution to the magazine.

A bright and amusing little story in the July Arena is Alice W. Fuller's "A Wife Made to Order." Since so many confirmed bachelors seem to demand something of this sort Miss Fuller's story will obtain a wide reading among the ladies.

A prominent feature of Outing for July is a history of "The Lake Yacht Racing Association," that great school for amateur seafarers. Many fine half-tones of well-known skippers and their white-winged flyers accompany the article. The number is replete with sensible sketches of outdoor life.

Lenox and Stockbridge are thought of now chiefly for their social poise and fashionable gaieties. But the prominent part these villages have taken in the literary history of the country is shown by Henry Dwight Sedgwick, of Stockbridge, who contributes to the Midsummer Holiday (August) Century a chapter of "Reminiscences of Literary Berkshire."

For seven years Scribner's Magazine has had the habit of publishing a midsummer Fiction Number, in which have appeared some of the most notable short stories that have been written by American authors. The present (August) issue is no exception to this remarkably successful record. Any number of the magazine would be notable with an array of contributors which includes Anthony Hope, H. C. Bunner, Hopkinson Smith, Richard Harding Davis, Octave Thanet, Noah Brooks, George Meredith, George L. Putnam and Theodore Roosevelt. The number contains seven short stories, six of them illustrated by artists of the first rank, including W. H. Hyde, Reinhardt, C. Y. Turner, Orson Lowell and others.

MAY CUT THE WIRES

The Street Railway Ordinance Amended Monday Night

FOR THE BENEFIT OF FIREMEN.

Alderman Snyder Introduces a Resolution

For the Removal of Refuse Matter from Business Places—More Street Lights Authorized—Order Drawn to Pay for the Steam Plant—Miscellaneous Matters Considered by the Council.

The regular meeting of the common council was called to order at 8:30 o'clock Monday evening with Mayor Ihling in the chair and every alderman present. The minutes of the previous meeting were read and approved. The following petitions were read and referred to the proper committees:

Mrs. Jane Stewart, in a communication, represented that there had been presented to her for payment a bill for taxes for the construction of a cement walk, amounting to $85, fronting on the property on the corner of Academy street and Michigan avenue. She said the land did not belong to the property for which she is agent. She wanted such taxes rebated. Finance.

D. Riessink and others wanted a water main laid from the corner of March and Lake streets to the city limits. Fire and water.

O. F. Millard of the Kalamazoo house petitioned that the city remove the stone pavement next to the cement sidewalk in front of his hotel and substitute block pavement for it. Streets and bridges.

E. A. Busell and sixteen others protested against the laying of a sewer on Village street. Sewers.

Alfred W. Brownell and other residents protested against the draining of the Merrill mill race until cold weather. Streets and bridges and health.

M. H. Lane and F. B. Lay petitioned the council to grant them the franchise, which had been advertised as required by law. The ordinance accompanied the petition. The same was referred to the streets and bridges committee and the committee on ordinances.

Offered to Sell.
Alderman Celem read a letter from Coon & Son, in which they offered to sell their roller and tar tub and other articles used in laying brick pavement, at a big sacrifice. The letter was placed on file.

Alderman Curtenius from the street and bridge committee, read a report recommending the rebuilding of the bridge over Acadia creek at Church street. Adopted.

Alderman Ford from the committee on public grounds and buildings reported that it would be cheaper to build the greenhouse at Riverside cemetery by the day than by contract. The bids as received from contractors were all too high.

More Street Lights.

The committee on lighting recommended the placing of lamps at the corners of Pitcher street and the Michigan Central railroad tracks, Kalamazoo and Stewart avenues and Taylor and Spring streets. The report was adopted.

The committee on license reported favorably on the application of T. B. Close for a license to lay cement walks. Report adopted.

Alderman Rose presented the report of Prof. Cooley of Ann Arbor on the tests he had made on the engine and boilers of the municipal lighting plant.

Professor Cooley in his report said the boiler tests had been made at the request of the Williams Manufacturing company and of the Stirling company of Chicago. The object primarily was to test the oil burning apparatus invented by L. J. Strait. The results were not conclusive, but very good considering the gravity of the oil. He considered the apparatus compact and easily managed.

The two 125-horse power Stirling boilers the professor said were good and substantial. As only about 80 per cent of the rated capacity of the boilers is used at present, the economy was not as great as it would otherwise be. The professor criticised the erection of the iron chimney instead of brick.

He thought the Russell compound engine was giving very satisfactory results in practice. It is a sturdy and well built machine. He thought a fault in the condenser should be remedied. The shafting, clutches, pulleys and air pump were of good material.

The professor made tests with oil and coal. With the former the average boiler pressure was 90.03 in one test and in another 90.3 pounds. The total oil used was 1,457.75 pounds. The average steam pressure with coal was 97.87 pounds, with 3,733 pounds of coal. The steam consumption per indicated horse-power was 16.75 pounds.

The committee on ordinances presented a report recommending the amending of the street railway ordinance. It gives the local freedom to the right to cut the wires of the electric railway company when necessary; the right for the fire department to use the poles of the company; also for the placing of an electric ring in the company's power house as a signal for the cutting off of the current. Adopted.

Paid for the Steam Plant.
Alderman Rose presented a resolution instructing the drawing of an order amounting to $3,541.50 in favor of Arbuckle, Ryan & Co., the builders of the steam plant at the municipal lighting station. It was for the balance due the company. Before the vote on the resolution was taken Alderman Celem said he wanted the reading of the contract made with the firm. The council took a recess for fifteen minutes to give the clerk time to find the contract.

On re-assembling and before the engine matter was disposed of, Alderman Fletcher moved that an order be drawn in favor of Mr. Francisco in payment of the new fire department horses, which was adopted.

Alderman Snyder's Idea.
Alderman Snyder presented a resolution providing for the removal of refuse matter from hotels, restaurants, saloons, grocery and fruit stores in the business portion of the city at the close of business hours. Adopted.

The same alderman presented another resolution regulating the use of half burned walls in rebuilding. It requires the submission of plans and specifications to the city clerk and to the building inspectors; and further provides that the contractors be licensed and required to furnish bonds to the city for their compliance with the ordinances. The alderman said that the reason for the presenting of the resolution was that they were to begin to rebuild the O'Neil and Murphy buildings burned out at the Dewing fire. He thought the walls unsafe. The matter was referred to the ordinance and license committee for the completion of an ordinance. The contract as made with Arbuckle, Ryan & Co. was read by the city clerk, and afterwards the resolution instructing the clerk to pay the firm the amount, was passed by an aye and no vote.

Abner Greene, who had petitioned for the right to set up a popcorn stand at the corner of Main and Burdick streets, was denied the permission.

Mr. Cleveland's Barn.
The question of the repairing of the barn of A. P. Cleveland was brought up by the city attorney. He said that the violation of the ordinance by Mr. Cleveland was merely technical, as from what he could learn, the repairs as made had really lessened the fire risk. Alderman Schuster wanted to hear from Mr. Campbell, one of the building inspectors. The latter thought the repairs as made amounted to 20 per cent. more than the original cost of the building. The mayor said it would be a weak case to prosecute against Mr. Cleveland. On motion of Alderman Celem the matter was placed in the hands of the city attorney to do as he saw fit.

City Engineer Taft reported on the matter of the drainage of the South Side improvement company's plat. He recommended that a 15-inch tile be laid in the bed of the mill race from Reed to Clinton streets; a 12-inch tile from Clinton to De Witt streets; and that catch basins be built at various places. Report accepted.

The bonds of Priest Bros. and Sawyer for the construction of the Mill street bridge were approved.

Health Officer Hochstein reported ten deaths, two cases of scarlet fever, three patients at Borgess hospital at city expense.

A resolution was passed requiring the placing of manholes either next to the curb stone or next to the building or sidewalk. It also provided that the covers shall be corrugated. Adjourned.

A KENTUCKY ROMANCER.

James Lane Allen and His Notable Work in the Field of Fiction.

One of the shining literary lights of the new south is James Lane Allen, a young Kentuckian who rejoices in the possession of a very commendable literary past and gives promise of even a more commendable literary future. Allen is a blond young giant with a magnificent head and a strong, kindly face. He was born several years before the beginning of the civil war on a blue grass farm near Lexington, and not far removed from the spot where many generations of his family had lived since the first emigration from Virginia. One of his ancestors, Colonel William Payne, once struck George Washington during a quarrel, but the two men afterward became great friends.

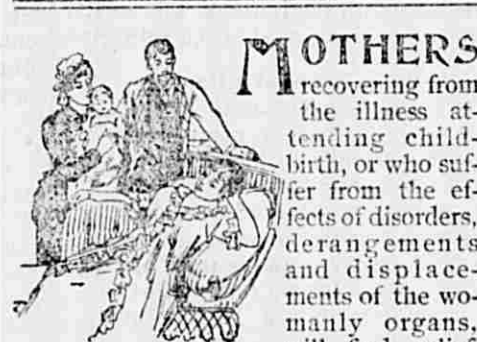

Allen was educated at Kentucky university, finished at the very head of his class and then took a postgraduate course and received the degree M. A. He left the college pretty thoroughly conversant with Latin, Greek, French, German, Spanish and Italian, and for some time taught the languages in southern colleges. His ambition, however, was to do something worth doing in literature.

and as college work grew more and more distasteful to him he turned to literature, making his field of fiction his native state.

The rewards of literature in a pecuniary sense are very small, especially to a beginner, and as he studied fiction he also studied law and was admitted to the bar. While in Omaha he wrote his first book, "Allen's Handbook of the Nebraska Code." In 1870 he began the practice of his profession in Chicago and soon attracted considerable attention because of his legal talent and eloquent public addresses on social, political and educational topics.

He loved law, however, less than he loved college work, and steadily continuing his literary labors soon began to make a name for himself in literature. His short stories have been published in the leading magazines, and "The White Owl," "Sister Dolores" and others have plainly demonstrated that he possesses rare talent for the production of fiction of a high class. Two of his best known books are "A Kentucky Cardinal" and "Flute and Violin." As a public reader he has been very successful throughout the south.

This is the proper time to build up her strength and cure those weaknesses, or ailments, which are the cause of her trouble. Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription dispels aches and pains, melancholy and nervousness, brings refreshing sleep and makes a new woman of her.

Mrs. ABRAHAM LYON, of Louisville, Jefferson Co., N. Y., writes: "I had been suffering from ulceration and falling of the womb, for several years, or since the birth of my youngest child. I consulted all the physicians around here and they gave me up and said there was no help for me. At last, almost discouraged, I began taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and took five bottles. It is three years since and I have not had any return of the trouble. I feel very grateful, and in fact, owe my life to it. I do not think I should have been alive now if I had not taken your medicine."

Jackson's Hole Settlers Seem Safe Up to Date.

SUPPOSED POSITION OF THE REDS.

Said To Be Encamped in an Impregnable Position, but Not Molesting the Whites—Question of Arresting the Men Who Butchered the Indian Prisoners—No Steps Yet Taken in That Direction—Another Call for Bluecoats.

WASHINGTON, July 29.—Further denial of the reports of a massacre at Jackson's Hole, Idaho, have reached the interior department in a dispatch from Indian Agent Teter. The dispatch was dated Rexburg, Idaho, near Market Lake, July 28, and says: "On the 27th instant I met Sheriff Hawley, near Rexburg, returning from Jackson's Hole, where had been sent to ascertain if the settlers had been killed by the Indians. Hawley states that the settlers have not been molested by the Indians, who are supposed to be encamped about forty miles from the settlement in a practically impregnable position. There is no doubt of the fact that a large body of Lumb Indians have recently joined the other Indians in Hoback's canon."

Speaking of the dispatch from Market Lake stating that the Jackson's Hole settlers would be arrested and tried for killing several Indians accused of violation of the Wyoming game laws, Commissioner Browning said that he knew of no steps having been taken in this direction and that the matter had not yet been considered by the bureau. He added that the Indian office would welcome a legal test of the right of the Indians to kill game in defiance of state laws. "We should like to stop their hunting," he said, "but have no power to do so. The treaty is plain and is binding on us. If the courts decide that the state law is superior to the treaty of the United States government with the Indians the matter will be settled, and we shall be very glad of it."

Call for Troops at a Ranch. NEW YORK, July 29.—John C. O'Connor, attorney for the executors of the late Robert Ray Hamilton, has received the following telegram: "MARKET LAKE, July 28.—Can you get a detachment of troops ordered to protect Mary Mero Ranch. As planned by Coppinger no troops within forty miles."

"J. D. SARGENT." Mary Mero ranch, of which Robert Ray Hamilton was a part owner, is about forty miles north of Jackson's Hole and close to the southern boundary of Yellowstone park. Immediately on receipt of the telegram Mr. O'Connor placed himself in communication with the military authorities there in order that steps might be taken for the protection of Sargent.

CHUYENNE, Wyo., July 28.—Sheriff John Ward, of Uintah county, is here and denies all the charges made by Agent Teter against the white settlers in Jackson's Hole. He says they are all thrifty, law-abiding people.

Alleged Burglar Convicted.

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., July 28.—A State Register special says that J. S. Sullivan, Michael Lawrence and William Morrow, the three men arrested some time ago in Taylorsville with burglar's tools in their possession, were convicted at Cambridge, Henry county, of robbing the bank at Orion, last spring, of $3,024. Sullivan was sentenced to seventeen years in the penitentiary and Lawrence and Morrow fifteen years each.

Aurania Disabled at Sea.

NEW YORK, July 30.—The British steamer Aurania, which has arrived from London, reports that on July 25, in latitude 44.19 longitude 55.57, the Cunard line steamer Aurania was sighted with her machinery disabled. She signaled that all on board were well and that no assistance was required.

"Hypnotism" Is a Handy Word.

PORTLAND Ore., July 30.—Dolly Agnew, the young woman confined in the county jail on a charge of larceny, only one of many previous escapades, has made the startling claim that she is subject to hypnotic influence. She claims that William Woodard forces her to steal in spite of herself.

Ethian Given a State Office.

SPRINGFIELD, July 30.—Governor Altgeld has appointed ex-Congressman George A. Ethian, of Newton, member of the state railroad and warehouse commission, vice Colonel Charles F. Lape, removed on account of political reasons. The change is effective Aug. 1.

A Pioneer's Recommendation.

Mr. J. W. Venable, of Downey, a pioneer of Los Angeles County, Cal., says: "When ever I am troubled with pain in the stomach and with diarrhoea I use Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I have used it for years, know it to be a reliable remedy, and recommend it to every one." For sale by Geo. McDonald, corner Main and Burdick.

SENSATIONAL COUNCIL CITY SCENE.

Six Members Arrested for Refusing to Obey an Official Call.

TOLEDO, O., July 30.—A sensational scene was enacted in the council chamber last evening by the arrest of six Democratic members who refused to obey the mayor's official call for a joint session of the council and aldermen. The session was called to confirm the appointment of Judge Commager to the bi-partisan board of elections. The confirmation had been rejected by the joint session of a week ago, the Democrats exerting influence over the balance of the body in claiming that Commager had been a traitor to his party.

His appointment was therefore not confirmed. The mayor issued a call for a joint session to take action again on the appointment, and the Democrats, after answering to their names at roll-call, abruptly left the council chamber and refused to return. The city solicitor drew up a state warrant for their arrest, which was signed by the president of the aldermanic board and given to the sergeant-at-arms to serve. The Democrats were locked in an adjoining room and refused to open the door, and only on the threat of calling in the police did they consent to allow the sergeant to enter.

After he had read the warrant they resisted and refused to leave the room and a call was sent to the central station for a detail of police, but before they arrived the fighters weakened and returned to the chamber under arrest, where they voted against the confirmation. More trouble is expected from the affair and they threaten to enjoin Commager from taking his seat on the board of elections.

SOVEREIGN AND BANK NOTES.

He Issues a Second Circular Regarding His Proposed Boycott.

WASHINGTON, July 30.—A second circular on the proposed boycott of national bank notes has been issued by Master Workman Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor. Sovereign devotes some space in his circular to answering the bankers. He claims that private interest, and not the public welfare, is the bankers' motive for furnishing a circulating medium to the people. The officers of the Knights of Labor claim to have received many replies to the original boycott order. Circulars and printed requests urging laboring people to refuse the bank notes will be sent out generously. The inauguration of this boycott will be one of the features of the celebration of Labor Day, September 2.

CINCINNATI, July 30.—President John McBride, of the National Federation of Labor, stopped here en route to Columbus. Speaking of the manifesto issued by President Sovereign, of the Knights of Labor, favoring the boycotting of national bank notes, McBride said: "While the principle of doing away with this class of money is a good one, I do not think Mr. Sovereign has chosen the right course to attain his end. If his advice were followed the result would be injurious to labor, because it would reduce the volume of money in circulation."

Will Investigate Alleged City Boudoir.

WEST SUPERIOR, Wis., July 31.—Judge Marshall has ordered a grand jury to investigate alleged corruption in the administration of the city's affairs. For the past four or five years official corruption has been charged on all sides. The investigation of Mayor Starkweather, who is accused of receiving money from the gamblers and saloon men, has been going on for the past two weeks. The council has been divided in the affair, part of the members upholding Mayor Starkweather. Charges and counter charges have been made, and the people finally demanded that a thorough investigation be made.

Big Suit for Damages Ended.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., July 4.—Judge Webb of Grand Rapids has sustained the demurrer of the defendants in the fifty suits for damages, aggregating about $2,000,000, brought by Eau Claire and Chippewa Falls parties against Frederick Weyerhaeuser and several of his lumbering corporations. This ends the litigation, as the plaintiffs will not appeal. The cases had been pending several years, and were based on the claim that the great flood of 1881 on the Chippewa river was due to the negligence of Weyerhaeuser and the corporations in the management of their dams.

LOOKING BACKWARD.

Look After the Back; a Fall, a Strain, a Constant Sitting or Stooping Position Brings Backache—Do You Know this Means the Kidneys are Affected.

How few people realize when their back begins to ache that it is a warning provided by nature to tell you that the kidneys are not working properly. You have a severe fall, you strain yourself lifting, or perhaps you are compelled to maintain a sitting or stooping position for long intervals at a time, your back begins to ache, then your head, you become listless, tired and weary, but do you understand the real cause? We think not, else you would not use plasters and liniment on the back, which only relieve, but do not reach the cause. If you would rid yourself of the pain and cure the root of the trouble at the same time, save many years of suffering and perhaps life itself, you will take a kidney remedy that has been tried and proven that it will cure. Ask your neighbors if they have used Doan's Kidney Pills; if not, here is a lady of Kalamazoo who speaks of her case as follows:

Mrs. M. A. Baker resides at 301 Portage Street. She says: "My trouble has been kidney complaint with all the characteristic features, among them a very bad back. I have been this way for several years, being sometimes so bad that I could hardly get around. I tried many things for my complaint, among them Porous plasters, but until I used Doan's Kidney Pills I never knew what it was to be relieved for any length of time. Since using Doan's Kidney Pills the pain and lameness seemed to have vanished."

Mrs. Baker's case may be your case. Why will you let your neighbors be cured and go on with the same old pains and aches yourself? Needless of this may bring on dropsy or Bright's disease, then you will find it too late to look for a cure.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for sale by all dealers—price, 50 cents. Mailed by Foster-McMillan Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the U. S. Remember the name, Doan's, and take no other.

EXPLAINED.

CONFIDENCE IN THEIR PRODUCT LED THE SHAKERS TO MAKE AN UNUSUAL OFFER.

People of this day and generation are not disposed to give things away. When therefore, the Mount Lebanon Shakers recently stated that anyone could get a bottle of Digestive Cordial by calling in person at their New York office, it excited a great deal of talk.

One of the leading dailies of the Metropolis sent a reporter to find out what was meant. It developed that the preparation in question has proven beneficial in so large a majority of cases that nine-tenths of the people who are sufficiently anxious to call for a sample, find so much relief that they continue the product's use and tell their friends about it. As a result a very large demand has been created.

The Shakers have a long record of success as inventors and their various medicinal products have always enjoyed a high reputation. The Digestive Cordial is not only nourishing in itself but it digests other foods when taken as directed.

Sleepless nights, spots before the eyes and a sense of heaviness after eating, loss of weight and general weakness are among the common symptoms of indigestion which it promptly relieves, and it is gratifying to know that such a positive and harmless remedy as the Digestive Cordial should have at last been devised.

The common idea about consumption is that it is a lung trouble, but this is not all. Why is it that the consumptive gets thinner and thinner until he has wasted to a skeleton? Because the food he eats does not nourish him. It is not digested.

The first sign of the appearance of consumption is growing thin, wasting; this is before the cough; before the expectoration. Stop the wasting and recovery will follow in the incipient stages, and the disease will be retarded in advanced cases.

THE SETTEE TABLE, A PRETTY AND USEFUL PIECE OF FURNITURE.

Historic Women—Woman the Creator of Society—Dress For Mature Women—Business Women and Dress—Sickroom Don'ts. A Woman of a Rare Type.

A settee table of oak has an adjustable top, which can be turned over by the removal of two pegs, making a high back to the bench, whose deep seat is utilized as a household linen closet. These tables are in great demand where the saving of space is an object and come in various sizes.

They can be purchased without the top and used as a window seat. One in a pretty little studio of a woman artist was most artistically treated. It was painted a dull green. The back and the lid of the seat were upholstered in an effective gold colored tapestry drawn over a padding of hair and held down by gimp and gilt nails, making a most artistic seat, or table, as its use for either was required.

Another one was stained green by a clever little artist, who discovered, by repeated trials, a material that is a good imitation of the popular stain which decorators hold as a secret.

On the back and lid of the seat was used a natural toned burlap with stenciled griffins in dark brown as a decoration.

These tables may be treated in various ways. One stained the natural oak and upholstered in green rep, turcoman, cordury, burlap or denim would be most attractive. Or for green, substitute brown in the same materials and put on with dull brass nails, making an effective seat for a hall.

Historic Women.

The more one goes back into history and looks up the secret springs of actions of great men whose deeds have made their names prominent in our country's annals one is convinced that in many instances the real motive for those actions is found in their wives and mothers. To Mercy Warren, the friend of Samuel and John Adams, and the author of the first history of the American Revolution, is now accorded the honor of first proclaiming the doctrine that "the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness is inherent and belongs equally to all mankind." It is also said that she was the first to advocate separation from the mother country and that she inspired the two Adamses in their efforts for independence. Mrs. Abigail Adams and Mrs. Warren were close friends.

In a letter which Abigail Adams received from her husband he wrote: "I do not believe that General Howe has a very great woman for a wife. A smart woman would have put Howe in possession of Philadelphia long ago." Abigail Adams wrote in one of her letters to her husband, "I long to hear that you have declared an independence, and in the new code of laws which I suppose it will be necessary for you to make I desire that you will remember the women and be more generous and honorable to them than your ancestors were."

Such were some of the women of the early history of our country, and such their patriotism. "Is it any wonder that their descendants," said a member of the Political Equality club, "are filled with the same loyal zeal? Is it any wonder that they are tired of being an unfranchised class and of being denied a voice in the government which they helped to create? There can be but one answer to such questions. The spirit of Abigail Adams and Mercy Warren is at work today and is to assist in the enfranchisement of American women."—New York Mail and Express.

Woman the Creator of Society.

The influence that women exert on the manners of men is acknowledged to be very great. Without the refining contact with gentle womanhood a man will never lose the innate roughness with which nature has endowed him.

High birth and good breeding are the privileges of a few, but the habits and manners of a gentleman may be acquired by all. It is of no use to assert that their acquisition is attended with little difficulty, for a perfect manner in society is the result of a succession of small sacrifices. No one can be perfectly well-mannered who is selfish, and even the minor virtue of punctuality can only be attained at the expense of pleasure.

Etiquette is not to be learned from association with men; it is woman who creates society. Just as the height of a stage of civilization can always be measured by the amount of the domestic which is paid to women, so the culture of a particular man can be gauged by his manner when in company with ladies.

Primitive men used to gather round the food which they had won in the chase and throw the bones over their shoulders to the women, who sat outside the circle. Primitive men made the women do all the hard work and gave them all the heavy burdens to carry. Civilized man, on the contrary, gives precedence to woman in every particular. He does not eat himself till she is served, he is careful to give her the best place at an entertainment, he lets her walk on the inside of the path and opens the door for her when she is leaving the room. Woman was first in forming society, for these small observances not only conduce to her own comfort, but are highly beneficial to the character of the man, who would without them become rough and selfish.—Exchange.

Dress For Mature Women.

The greatest amount of care is required in the selection of attire for women who are past their first bloom. When a woman has turned 35 or so she should seek to adapt dress to her years. To do this it is by no means necessary to look dowdyish or to wear things that are unbecoming or old looking. The first principle of appropriate dress for women in middle life is to select good material and have it made in a conservative fashion, an abundance of frills, ruffles and fussiness being emphatically out of place on a woman of 40 to 50 years.

When she has passed the half century landmark, every effort to appear youthful and dress in juvenile fashion simply makes her ridiculous and emphasizes the marks of time in her general appearance.

There is nothing that betrays a woman's age like dressing like a young girl. A young woman may wear conservative and nature looking dresses and wraps and bonnets, yet be very stylish and elegant, but if the woman who is past 50 attempts the styles that properly belong to 20 or 25, she gives unmistakable evidence of a weakness in her brain or a very decided perversion of good taste.

Materials for handsome dresses for middle-aged women should be of good quality and such as will require but a limited amount of garniture. There are fabrics that are handsome enough without much trimming, and whatever decoration is used should be of the highest grade.

It is possible to so dress that the flight of years is not kept conspicuously in view. But this must be done by the choice of plain but rich styles and fabrics and a careful adaptation of them to the personality of the wearer. To dress as suits one's age, not in the stuffy, old-fashioned, prim modes that were adopted when our grandmothers put on caps at 35, but to follow, at a little distance, the changings in fashion, is the true art of the toilet for women of years.—New York Ledger.

Business Women and Dress.

The business woman cannot afford to disregard the conventionalities of dress. She who is wisest and most far-sighted follows in the wake of present day fashions, avoiding exaggeration or absurdities so far and so long as possible, and even adopting them when she finds herself forced to do so or remain conspicuous among women.

Men have small patience with the woman who departs from conventional dress standards, nor have they much admiration for that other woman who holds all matters of dress in contempt and regards her clothes as a question of covering only.

The woman whose dress is neat, stylish, becoming and suitable to the time and place is the woman with whom they like best to deal. They do not want diamond earrings to flash in their eyes when dictating to their stenographer, but they resent it as almost an affront to themselves if her dress is antiquated in pattern, ill-fitting and unbecoming. True, they have not deep objections to dress reform so long as it is cleverly concealed. They do not object to an uncorrected figure when the carriage is such that the lack of corsets cannot be detected, but they are very apt to make remarks about the poor woman who throws away her stays and does not learn to use her backbone.

Good clothes may not be an essential to success, but they are more or less of an index of ourselves, and it is only the women who are sure of their position in every way who can afford to let their dress be misleading. Business women who are depending upon their own exertions for a comfortable livelihood dare not do so.—San Francisco Argonaut.

Don't admit hushmouth visitors. Don't keep the room too hot. Don't forget frequent ventilation. Don't raise a dust. INTER-AMERICAN EXPOSITION.

Movement on Foot to Hold One at Galveston in 1896.

The Galveston city council held a special meeting the other evening and adopted resolutions favoring the holding of a great Inter-American exposition at Galveston in the fall of 1896, for the purpose of celebrating the completion of the harbor improvement at that point and the making of the port a deep water port.

An effort will be made to give it a national character and secure the active co-operation of all the transmississippi states lying between the Mississippi river and the Rocky mountains, and through their representatives in congress secure national aid in holding a great jubilee deep water exposition in 1896. It is also contemplated to invite Mexico, Central American and South American republics to participate in the exposition.

The resolution asks the active co-operation of the Galveston Cotton Exchange, chamber of commerce and board of trade. Expressions favorable to such an exposition have been received from Oklahoma, Arkansas, Kansas, Colorado, Nebraska and Missouri, and its projectors believe it can be made a grand success.—St. Louis Republic.

In After Years

"Darling," he gazed at her with a tender, appealing glance. "is"— They were preparing to go out for the evening, and he was anxious, for her sake, to look his best.

"My hat on straight?" Being assured that it was, the husband of the coming woman, after giving explicit directions to the nurse regarding baby, trustfully took the arm of her who had sworn to cherish and protect him—and so they went their way.—New York World.

Her Timely Discovery.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego, Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 35 cents. Sold only by Hall Bros., druggists, 151 South Burdick street.

Don't ask the patient what he wants to eat. Don't let cold food get hot or hot food get cold. Don't let food stand by the bed. Don't leave a table by the bed covered with soiled dishes, crumpled paper, fruit skins and burned matches. Don't bring too much food at a time. Don't wet the bedclothing and dress in feeding the patient. Don't make him drink too fast. Don't leave bureau drawers open and shades crooked. Don't yawn frequently and unreservedly. Don't jar the bed. Don't rock vigorously and continuously. Don't introduce mournful and suggestive subjects. In a word, don't forget that a sick person if conscious at all is apt to have painfully acute perceptions and sensibilities on which trifles jar in a superlative degree.

A Woman of a Rare Type.

There was once a woman who was suddenly called upon to provide a dinner for unexpected guests. She lived in a country town, and the time of the year was between "hay and grass." Canned things had run out and green things hadn't yet ripened.

The woman called Bridget from the kitchen.

"Bridget," said she, "what is there in the pantry to eat?"

"Divil a thing," says Bridget.

"Aren't there any eggs?"

"Divil a wan!"

"How about chickens? Couldn't you kill a couple?"

"They're all astray, mum, andorra wan cud I catch till roostin' time!"

"Then give us some boiled water and a glass salt," said the woman, for she was of the sort to die game.

That woman was one of a type too rare in the world. With her expediency came near being courage, and courage is the bright and shining virtue of heroes. The person who can conquer a crisis is of more use than a pontoon bridge to a retreating army. Don't be cast down by any circumstance but death, and keep even that at bay as long as possible. There is no such first defense to the brave, and the test of bravery lies more often in trifles than in threatening of grave import. It takes more "sand" to stand against "little foxes" always in evidence than against tigers in the jungle. We may never be called upon to visit the jungle, but the vines that lure the foxes hang thick in every life.—Chicago Times-Herald.

Learn Useful Things.

There are some people to whom it comes natural to fuss and the stove, but the majority of young women of today know not the first principles of getting a meal. If more of our girls would learn to manage the kitchen, they would be of inestimable help to the tired mother who so often takes upon her shoulders the entire household work, always to the detriment of her own health. If more daughters would endeavor to learn a few useful things about the house, it would make the mother's life a continued pleasure instead of constant effort. She would then have a few moments when she could rest, and the treasure of her health would not be needlessly frittered away.

It is the duty of every mother to teach her daughters to be good housekeepers, to know what should be done and how it should be done. The woman who is most successful in keeping her servants and in getting good ones is the woman who is a first class housekeeper. She knows there are a hundred and one methods of doing everything and does not try to force her girls to do everything just exactly as she herself would do it. It matters little how a piece of work is done, so long as the result is right.—New York Telegram.

FASHIONABLE ACCESSORIES.

Description of a Handsome Gown of Maize Silk Gauze.

Spangled chiffon or gauze is used instead of lace on evening gowns for full fronts or yokes, epaulettes, ruffles, bust draperies, etc. Fancy buckles are worn in belts, bows on the sides of a collar, etc., in steel, jet or rhinestones. Black, white and colored silk belting of a heavy rib is very fashionable, with a silver buckle and safety slide at the back, which combine the functions of a safety pin and slide. A new buckle can be changed from one belt to the other without any sewing. The plated silver buckles wear well and are within the reach of every one. For linen and pique suits there are small enameled buttons in imitation of linen, which are white or dotted with a color and set with a tiny rhinestone. Small gold, silver or linen studs or pearl buttons are worn in cotton shirt waists.

On pale pink gowns or those of other soft and delicate tints of a changeable character black accessories are employed. A black belt is worn, as is also a black taffeta lining. The skirt is plain. The bodice is adorned with a white lace drape, which forms a blouse in front, epaulettes over the sleeves and a bertha behind. The balloon sleeves extend to the elbow only. The belt, shoulder bows and epaulettes are of black satin, while the neck ruche is of black gauze adorned with red poppies. The hat, of maize rice straw, is trimmed with cream gauze and red poppies, with their foliage.

THE PRINCE DEOLINES.

It is announced again that the Prince of Wales isn't coming over here this year. Well, we'll try to worry along as well as we can without him.—Boston Globe.

The chappies have lost all interest in the fall yacht race since Wales announced that he would not be over. They all think now that it will be quite the thing to remain away—Philadelphia North American.

It is definitely decided that the Prince of Wales will not come to the United States this summer, though he regrets that pressing business engagements, etc., prevent him from accepting our invitation. It would hardly do for Albert Edward to be a week distant from the throne in case it should suddenly be vacated.—Springfield Union.

The interesting information has been secured by the New York World that the Prince of Wales will not visit America this year and that Valkyrie III is the yacht that will compete with Defender for the America cup. The visit of the heir apparent to the English throne might be easily narrowed unless he could take the cup back with him, and that the cup will remain on this side of the water is deemed very probable at present.—Columbus Dispatch.

DEATH OF PITZEL

Narrated by Holmes, the Man of Many Crimes.

STORY HE IS SAID TO HAVE TOLD.

The Case One of Suicide, According to the Champion Rascal of the Century—Found the Dead Body and Proceeded to Make Use of It for Revenue Only—How He Destroyed the Evidence of Suicide by Using an Explosive.

PHILADELPHIA, July 30.—The Bulletin prints the following: An entirely new statement has just been made by H. H. Holmes, the supposed murderer of the Pitzel children. In it the man of many crimes gives in detail his version of how Pitzel came by his death last September, and also states his (Holmes) connection with the tragedy. The statement was given to a close friend of Holmes in Philadelphia who gave it to a Bulletin reporter. Holmes says that on the Saturday night preceding the death of Pitzel the latter came to his house on North Eleventh street, where he was staying with "Mrs. Howard." Pitzel told Holmes a heartrending story of his pecuniary difficulties, and of the sickness of his daughter in St. Louis. "I must have money," he said, "to send to my wife in St. Louis."

Holmes remonstrated with Pitzel as to his spendthrift habits and spoke substantially to him as follows: "Ben, you have been a good friend of mine. I'll admit I have made lots of money through you, but I cannot keep this thing up. Where is that $50 I gave you the other day? If you don't quit drinking you and I will have to separate." This conversation is said to have been carried on along Eleventh street, the men walking north until Norris street was reached. When they arrived at the corner Pitzel exclaimed: "I am of no benefit to anyone. I will soon get rid of my difficulties. Life has become a nuisance to me."

Holmes then avers that he jokingly remarked to Pitzel: "Well, your body is as cool as any other, but I would not advise you to do anything rash." Holmes accounts for making this remark by saying that he and Pitzel had under consideration the defrauding of the Fidelity Mutual Insurance Company. Holmes says Pitzel then became angry and again avowed he would commit suicide. Holmes then explains that Pitzel left him with the intention of going home. Holmes says he gave Pitzel no money that night, but promised to meet him at the Callowhill street house the following morning.

It was about 10 o'clock the following day (Sunday), Holmes goes on to say, that he went to visit Pitzel at the Callowhill street house. When he reached the place no one apparently was about. Holmes sat in the kitchen for almost twenty minutes, waiting for Pitzel to appear. The latter, Holmes supposed had gone out for breakfast. Time wore on and "Ben" was not to be seen. The conspirator then says that he became anxious about his friend's whereabouts and began to search the house for Pitzel. "As I arose to go upstairs," says the criminal, "I noticed a note lying on the counter in the front part of the house. It was addressed to me."

Then Holmes explains that he opened the note. It directed him to go up to the second floor and open a closet in which he would find a large blue bottle containing another letter addressed to him. Holmes followed the directions. He found the note in the bottle as described and was horrified when he read it. It was from Benjamin Pitzel and advised Holmes that his (Pitzel's) dead body could be found in the house. The latter pleaded that Holmes look after Pitzel's children and suggested that there would be no difficulty in getting the insurance money from the Fidelity company; that the dead body of Pitzel could be produced in evidence.

HOLMES FINDS THE CORPSE

And Concludes to Make Use of It in an Insurance Way.

Holmes then told of the appearance of the corpse when he found it, and said that he sat in the room with the body for over an hour. He was dazed and hardly knew what course to pursue. He finally made up his mind that since Pitzel had taken his life there would be no harm in destroying any evidence of suicide, so that he might be able to get the insurance on Pitzel's life without any difficulty. Holmes confessed that he thereupon dragged the dead body to the second floor, laid the corpse on the floor, pried open the mouth of the dead man with a pencil and poured in a quantity of explosive chemicals. He then, he says, placed a lighted match to the man's mouth, when the explosion which so horribly disfigured the corpse followed.

To give the more forcible impression that Pitzel came to his death by an accidental explosion, Holmes stated that he got a pipe of Pitzel's, filled it with tobacco, lighted it, then blew out the flame after the tobacco had been partly consumed, and placed the pipe beside the dead man's body. It was nearly 4 o'clock in the evening before he left the Callowhill street house. He put on a hat of Pitzel's to partially conceal his identity and placed his own hat, which was a felt, under his coat. The criminal went directly to the Broad Street station, so he alleges, and inquired at what hour the first train left for Chicago.

Holmes says he does not distinctly remember at what hour the railroad officials told him a Chicago train would leave Philadelphia, but believed that it was between 8 and 9:30 o'clock at night. He then went to the house where he was staying and made preparations to leave the city. He and his wife, Holmes alleges, left for Chicago that night. It is understood that if the prosecution concludes to indict Holmes for the murder of Pitzel in Philadelphia they will produce a witness who, it is said, heard the conversation between Holmes and Pitzel on that eventful evening when the latter threatened to do away with his life. It has also been learned that the state has another witness who was on the train on which Holmes and his "wife" traveled to Chicago.

This witness, it is understood, can testify that Holmes sat in an apparent stupor on the way to the west; that he had a novel before him for over an hour, and was seemingly so much dazed that during that time he never turned a page of the book.
Holmes' attorney gave out another statement last night relating to the statements made by Charles Chappell, of Chicago, to the effect that he had articulated four skeletons for Holmes. Holmes said that in laying skeletons for study he found them expensively and concluded that to deal in the ghastly articles would be a lucrative business. Thereupon he procured a number of corpses and had them scraped and articulated, but the supposition that he had murdered people to obtain them he scouted as arrant nonsense. "I got them in a legitimate manner," he continued, "and I am prepared to prove it when the time comes."

AT THE WINDY CITY END.

Chappell Proves That He Knows Something About Holmes' Castle.

CHICAGO, July 30.—Chappell, the machinist who says that he articulated skeletons of three supposed victims of H. H. Holmes, told the police that Holmes had two vats in the cellar of the "castle." One, he said, was in the southeast corner and the other in the southwest corner of the rear cellar. One of the vats, according to Chappell's statement, was used as a vessel in which the flesh was eaten from the bones by the use of acids; the other for the purpose of bleaching the bones.

Twelve laborers worked all day digging out the two corners designated by Chappell, and were about to give up the search as unsuccessful when one of the men at work in the southeast corner struck his spade against something which gave forth a metallic sound. The metal object proved to be a huge tank in the shape of a boiler. Work for the night was stopped before the tank was fully uncovered, but apparently it is eight feet long and three feet in diameter.

SOUTHERN COURT INCIDENT.

Judge "Calls Down" a Lawyer for Remarks Regarding Slave Times.

Athens, Ga., July 30.—A sensational incident occurred on Saturday in Watkinsonville during the session of the superior court. The case of the state against James Walker, colored, charged with marital unfaithfulness, was on trial. Judge N. L. Hutchins was on the bench, Solicitor General Russell represented the state, and F. C. Foster of Madison, appeared for the defendant. Colonel Foster, in his argument, was telling an anecdote related by Governor Tombs concerning the trial of a negro for a similar offense, and remarked to the jury that the public should not hold the negro up to a strict accountability for this, as the negroes had for 200 years previous to the war been encouraged in it by their owners.

In an instant the gavel of Judge Hutchins fell, and, turning to Colonel Foster, he said: "Colonel Foster, your argument is the most outrageous I have ever heard of and is a slander on the people of the south."

Colonel Foster replied: "I understood it to be the truth your honor, and didn't intend it as a slander."

"Well it is not the truth," replied Judge Hutchins. "There may have been a few such cases, but no general rule."

Colonel Foster then turned to the jury and finished his plea. The verdict convicted the negro.

AMBUSHED THE VIGILANTES.

Outlaws Fatally Wound One Pursuer, but One Bandit Is Captured.

HENNESSY, O., July 30.—Six men, heavily armed and mounted, rode to the store at Parvin and bought ammunition. The vigilantes started in pursuit and were ambushed, the outlaws fatally wounding one named Nickerson. Marshal Johnson had his horse wounded. Later fifty vigilantes came suddenly upon the six outlaws where they were preparing to camp. The bandits escaped, leaving seven horses, most of the ammunition, part of their clothing and all their provisions. Some are bandaged and one is badly wounded. One bandit was captured.

Not Hopeful of Mission Work.

PITTSBURG, July 30.—Rev. E. R. Donohue, pastor of the Eight Presbyterian Church of this city, and who has been identified with Chinese mission work for years, says that he believes the efforts to convert Chinese from paganism futile; that although the Chinamen go to Sunday school and seem to take an interest in the Christian religion and even profess Christianity, yet they cling to their heathen ideas and ceremonies.

Prohibit Taxpayers Discuss Equal Suffrage.

DECATUR, July 30.—"Equal Suffrage," was general topic at National Prohibition campaigning. Mrs. Mary L. Hawthorth, of the Decatur school board, made the opening address. Mrs. Eva M. Smith, of Springfield, responded. Speeches were made by Mrs. S. A. Underwood, of Decatur; C. Arnold, of Boston, and Mrs. Mary Hensel of Springfield. Helen M. Gougar spoke on the constitutional rights of women.

Big Storm at St. Louis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 30.—This city was visited by a terrific thunderstorm that raged for more than an hour. The rain fell in sheets, flooding the streets and sewers of the west end and doing considerable damage. A strong wind broke many trees and two brick houses in course of erection were completely demolished. A number of men were at work on them when the storm broke and one—George W. Bennett—was severely hurt.

John C. New at London.

LONDON, July 30.—John C. New, editor and proprietor of the Indianapolis Journal, and formerly consul general for the United States in this city, has been suffering from rheumatism for two weeks past. He is now slightly better.

Bitten by a Rattlesnake.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., July 31.—Word came to Health Commissioner Starkieff that John Brightly, engineer at Quarantine, had been bitten by a rattlesnake and is likely to die.

Two Lives Saved.

Mrs. Phoebe Thomas of Junction City, Ill., was told by her doctors she had consumption and that there was no hope for her, but two bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery completely cured her and she saved her life. Mrs. Thos Eggers, 129 Florida St., San Francisco, suffered from a dreadful cold, approaching consumption, tried without result everything else then bought one bottle of Dr. King's New Discovery and in two weeks was cured. He is naturally thankful. It is such results, of which these two samples, that prove the wonderful efficiency of this medicine in coughs and colds. Trial bottles free at George McDonald's drug store. Regular size 50c and $1.00.

Silver Discussion.

RESULTS TO FOLLOW FREE COINAGE

Stated from the Respective Standpoints of the Two Disputants—Red Ruin as Depicted by Horr; Permanent Prosperity as the Author of "Coin" Maintains—Comments on the Use and Production of the Two Precious Metals.

CHICAGO, July 30.—The last day of the Harvey-Horr silver siege was directed at the question of the feasibility of independent action by the United States for the remonetization of silver, and its free and unlimited coinage at the ratio of sixteen to one with gold, Harvey arguing for such action. Horr against it. Harvey presented tables showing the coinage of gold and silver from 1792 to 1873. He did this to show that the statement that gold did not seek the mints for the first fifty years of the nation, and that silver did not from that time till 1873 was untrue. Harvey then quoted from his book the total amount of gold and silver in the world and the cubic spaces they would respectively occupy. He went on arguing that there was not enough gold in the world for coinage uses, in view of the fact that the amount diverted from coinage for use in the arts has greatly increased in the past few years.

Ratios Cannot Be Maintained.

Horr declared that it was useless to try to fix the relative value of any two substances by legislation. Suppose congress should try to fix the relative value of a bushel wheat and a bushel of oats. As soon as one of them had a large crop up would go the ratio, and legislation by the nations of the whole world would not maintain the ratio any more than it would make water run up a hill. In the matter of the ratio between silver and gold it was the same. The law of supply and demand stepped in there, and the history of the world's legislation showed that it was impossible to maintain a fixed ratio between the precious metals.

Silver the More Stable Metal.

Harvey took up the question as to what is becoming of the silver being produced at present. He first quoted statements by authorities that the increase of the use of metals in the arts had grown so large that there was always a ridiculously small supply in Europe, and there was a demand for practically all the output of the United States. Gold was irregularly produced and hoarded by the few rich. Silver, on the contrary, when more valuable than gold was hoarded by the mass of the people, thereby conferring a general benefit. It was for this reason that silver had been a more stable metal in the past than gold.

Effect of Remonetization on Debt.

Horr took up the effect of remonetization on debt, and said that by far the largest part of the debts of the United States were less than a year old. These short-time debts were contracted under the existing gold basis, and to reduce them one-half would be to repudiate that one-half. Harvey's proposition would simply result in silver monometallism.

Harvey said that the gold advocates feared that the debts contracted in gold would be paid in silver. This was fallacious. What was repudiated in the bond would have to be paid. He declared it was not the stamp on coin which gave it value, but making a new use and new demand for it.

He insisted that if a silver remonetization act was passed silver would at once begin to appreciate and gold to depreciate, and they would be at a parity before congress adjourned.

Free Silver and Wage Earners.

Horr then enumerated the classes of people who, he declared, would be ruined by the cheapening of the measure of value. They included gold laborers, clerks, stenographers, railway employees, domestic servants, skilled labor of all sorts, miners, professional men, and the like, in the aggregate 22,735,061 in number. In addition to these he spoke of the pensioners of the government.

FREE SILVER AND INVESTMENTS.

Horr Says the Savings of the People Would Be Cut in Two.

In addition to these, nearly 5,000,000 people had their little savings in banks, and it was proposed to fraud them of one-half of their accumulations. Savings bank depositors had $1,712,000,000 on deposit which it was proposed to cut in two. Building and loan associations had 1,755,552,000 with an aggregate of $55,552,000 due them. In addition to these were the trust companies, life insurance companies, and state banks, all of which were to be allowed to pay in depreciated money. The money in the pockets of every man in the United States was to be halved in value. All of this for the benefit of 20,000 silver producers, whose output was worth half as much as the eggs yearly laid by the hens of the United States.

But the worst feature, he asserted, would be the destruction of all credit. It would bring about the worst panic the nation ever saw.

Harvey replying, said thousands of men had been financially wrecked by their inability to keep up their life policies in advance payments. He declared that there was but one worse crime than that of 1873, and that was that of the man who claimed that the defenders of silver meant repudiation. He thanked Horr for the illustration as to the small amount of silver in the United States. That was the claim of the silver men. There was no danger but that the demand for business would absorb it.

This nation could take all the silver which the world would bring to exchange for its products in a single year. We could thus absorb all the silver in the world if necessary. The history of the nation shows that the more primary money it had the more prosperous it was.

Horr said there was no such general lack of prosperity in this country as Harvey had claimed. He spoke of the result of actual contact with the people of the country. Since 1873 he had traveled over 500,000 miles, covering thirty-one states. It was the fact that no people on the face of the earth had been as prosperous as the people of the United States since 1873.

Horr then said he wanted to reciprocate a courtesy in presenting him (Horr) with a silver dollar, and said he proposed to present Harvey with two coins of two different metals, because Harvey was a bimetalist. Horr then handed over two Chinese coins, one silver, worth 20 cents, and one copper, worth 1 mill, and proceeded to say that the nation which struck these coins had a silver standard. Horr closed by thanking Harvey for the uniformly courteous treatment which he had received from his opponent during the discussion.

Harvey in closing said he accepted the Chinese coins, but objected to the reference Horr made to the silver coin. Harvey then proceeded to denounce the president's foreign and financial policy, and declared that the friends of silver were fighting the battle of the people of the world. On their success depended the liberties of the masses. He declared a second declaration of independence was needed. Answering questions was the final act in the controversy.

ECZEMA
From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of this disease. I visited Hot Springs and was treated by the best medical men, but was not benefited. When all things failed I tried S.S.S. and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible eczema was gone, not a sign of it left. My general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have often recommended S.S.S. and have never yet known a failure to cure.

John McGoff says that the people in the neighborhood and the trustees of St. Augustine's church, after investigation, have come to the conclusion that the addition proposed to be built by William E. Hill & Co., will be an improvement, and not a nuisance, and therefore, no trouble, legal or otherwise, will result.

A compromise has been effected between the street and bridge committee and the G. R. & I. railroad company, regarding the building of the bridge in the new channel cut through the bend at the gas works. The surveyors were at work today fixing the grade of the new channel at Lake Street.

Superintendent Edwards of the Michigan insane asylum swore out a warrant this morning for the arrest of M. E. Skinner, formerly an attendant at the institution, for larceny. Mrs. Annie Collins, aged 46 years, died at the home of her brother-in-law, Gifford DeWator, Alamo township, Monday night of tuberculosis. Her sister, Mrs. DeWator, was her only near relative. The funeral will be held at 3 p. m. Wednesday from the house, conducted by Rev. S. M. Fowler; interment in Liberty street cemetery.

The report of the burning out of the dynamo at the lighting station was false, so Mr. Clange says. The cause of the trouble was the improper cleaning of the machines by the boy in charge. A particle of carbon dust in the collector caused a short circuit between the wires. A new commutator was sent for and arrived this morning and the machine will be moving this evening.

It has come out that Mrs. Edith Clancy, who disappeared recently with two children, had fled to Toledo to join Patrick Boyle, the fireman discharge some time ago, for drunkenness. Mr. Boyle had written letters to Mrs. Clancy, which were found in her rooms. Boyle's 18-year-old son had journeyed to Toledo, and met the couple in front of a hotel. Boyle promised his son to write home, and to send money. Mrs. Boyle says she does not want to prosecute her wayward husband.

Ernest R. Tuthill was at Battle Creek yesterday as attorney for the defendant in the case of the People vs. George Smith, charged with assault and battery on his brother, Frank Smith. The case was tried before a jury in Justice Bidwell's court and lasted all day. After hearing the evidence and arguments of counsel the jury returned a verdict of not guilty. The case was a very important one as on it hangs other litigation. O. S. Clark, prosecuting attorney for Calhoun county appeared for the people.

OBITUARY.

Something of Interest About Frederick Newell, Deceased.

Frederick F. Newell, whose death occurred July 27, at his home on Portage street, was born at Liverpool, England, August 22, 1837. When about two years old he came to Kalamazoo with his parents and he made this city his home from that time until his death. In 1865 he was married to Christiana Bennett. Two children were born to the couple but both died. Mr. Newell leaves a wife, and two brothers, Charles Newell of this city and Alfred Newell of Coleridge, Nebraska. The funeral was held yesterday at Mountain Home cemetery, Rev. L. DeLamar officiating. The bearers were Messrs. Sobers, Hicks, Gillespie, Wilhelm, Fuller and Brockie.

Death of Charles R. Hastings. Charles R., son of Lawrence Hastings, died Monday evening at 608 East avenue, of hemorrhage of the bowels.

"We had an epidemic of dysentery in this vicinity last summer," says Samuel S. Pollock, of Briceford, Cal. "I was taken with it and suffered severely until some one called my attention to Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. I procured a bottle and felt better after the first dose. Before one-half of the bottle had been used I was well. I recommended it to my friends and their experience was the same. We all unite in saying it is the best." For sale by Geo. McDonald, corner Main and Burdick.

Elks Attention. A regular meeting of lodge No. 50 B. P. O. E. is called for tomorrow (Wednesday) evening at 8 o'clock.

EULOGIZES MR. DEBS.

Address of Thomas H. Kidd to the Workmen.

Thomas J. Kidd of Chicago, secretary of the International Woodworkers' union, made an interesting address at the Grand last evening, before a large and enthusiastic audience of interested representatives of the many trades of this city last evening. Mr. Kidd's talk was along the line of instruction in labor organization and discussion of the labor question. He was in hearty sympathy with labor organizations and trades unions, believing these bodies were now in their infancy and that the time was surely coming when every representative of the laboring class, no trade exempted, would be a member of one great labor organization. He held that the best working men of the day belonged to some union and by their unionism they were combined to elevate themselves and their fellow men. The speaker referred to child labor, denouncing the system in the strongest terms, and showing that it was one of the duties of labor unions to suppress the practice and send the children to school.

Mr. Kidd made a stirring reference to E. V. Debs, eulogizing his action and that of the men associated with him in the Pullman strike. He explained the work to be done, how to do it and closed with an earnest request to all trades to organize.

At the close of his talk, Chairman Colgrove called a meeting of the woodworkers at Trades and Labor hall this evening to organize a union. It is expected that it will be one of the largest organizations in the city.

JOKE ON WHOM?

Case of Pabst Which was Left on the Wrong Porch.

Grand Rapids Democrat: The Rt. Rev. George D. Gillespie, bishop of the western diocese of Michigan, has a cottage at the Charlevoix resort, so also has Henry Bishop of Kalamazoo, says a dispatch to the Detroit News. Both are highly respected but the joke is on one of them. An order was left with a local dispenser of amber fluid to have a case of the best "export" sent to the cottage of Henry Bishop. The order was given to the drayman to "leave this at Bishop's cottage."

Bishop Gillespie came home from a walk and found a case of Pabst's best calmly reposing on his back porch, while Mr. Bishop was wondering what had become of the beverage he ordered. What added spice to the incident was the fact that the good bishop had invited the Episcopal Sunday school down to spend the afternoon with him, and to think that the bishop was going to dispense bottled refreshments was enough to make a saint tear his hair.

Not Too Much.

"Altogether too expensive, Ethel," he said firmly.

"Oh, no, papa," she pleaded. "It won't cost much."

"My dear child, you mustn't think you can bamboozle your old father just because he likes to be generous when he can," he said. "I can't afford any such extravagance."

"But it's not extravagant, papa," she urged. "It really isn't."

"Didn't you say the material was $10 a yard?"

"Yes, but—"

"And you don't think that's extravagant! Why, that's too much to pay even for a midwinter ball gown."

"Of course it is, papa, but you see—"

"There's no use discussing it. I can't throw money away."

"But you don't understand, papa. Ten dollars a yard sounds like a lot because you don't know what I want. You haven't studied the fashions. It really would cost very little."

"How much?" he asked in a business-like way. "I don't want any generalities. How much?"

"Well," she said thoughtfully, knitting her brows, "I don't see how the whole bathing suit can cost over $3.50."—Chicago Post.

He Resented It.

"Hullo, Binny, what are you wading through that field for? 'Taint your nearest way home."

"I know it, but I read a sign stuck up on the fence, 'Persons forbidden to cross this lot.'"

"Well, what made you do it then?"

"Do you suppose I'm going to let any man call me a person?"—New York Recorder.
