HARRY ORCHARD STOOD; TELLS STORY OF MURDERS

His Recital Is Dramatic.

OUTRAGE AT WARDNER

Story Admitted Into Case in Face of Constant Objections on Part of the Defense—Tells of Conspiracy.

Orchard Testifies That He Killed Two Men at Wardner. Haywood Looks Sharply at Him.

[Associated Press Dispatch.]

BOISE, Idaho, June 5.—A well groomed, stockily built man, dressed in a gray sack suit and apparently as composed as any of his hearers, the man known as Harry Orchard, a self confessed many times murderer, took the witness stand in the district court of Ada county at 9:42 o'clock this morning.

He is the principal witness against William D. Haywood, charged with the murder of former Governor Steuenerberg. Orchard entered the courtroom in company of Jailor Raisbeamer and a number of guards. He was brought into the court room by the back stairway used by the jury. Orchard looked cool and collected.

Haywood perhaps was the most interested of the spectators. For the greater part of the morning he kept his eyes fixed staring on the witness, who seldom glanced his way. There was a curl as if of contempt upon his mouth. Now and then he flushed slightly under a pallid skin.

When later Orchard told how Haywood paid him $300 for blowing up the Vindicator mine and agreed with him for other murders, Haywood swallowed hard on a lump in his throat, but otherwise showed little emotion. At recess Haywood even chatted pleasantly with some friends and laughed heartily at a joke by one of his counsel.

Orchard will be allowed to tell his whole story leaving out certain minute details only. This question was settled this (Wednesday) morning when Judge Wood said that on assurance from counsel for the state that they would connect Haywood with the story of the Couer D'Alenes and other mine troubles and the crimes confessed by Orchard, that Orchard would be allowed to tell the story of the blowing up of the concentrator at Wardner in 1899. Two men were killed. The defense objected continually.

Haywood kept his eyes steadily fixed upon Orchard, who kept his gaze to the front. Haywood evidently tried to get Orchard's eye, but except for an occasional glance Orchard did not look toward Haywood.

Orchard testified that he lighted one of the fuses that blew up the concentrator mill at Wardner and that two men were killed.

Orchard, by his own confession, is the actual murderer of Steuenerberg. Haywood is the first one to be tried on the charge of that murder and the self-confessed murderer is expected, according to the statement of the prosecuting attorney to convict Haywood. It is stated most positively that Orchard has been promised and expects no clemency. The warden at the penitentiary said Tuesday night to the Associated Press:

"Orchard is ready to pay the last penalty for his crime and expects nothing else at the hands of the people of this state. I am well aware that it is difficult to persuade people on the outside that this is the case, but though singular as it may be, I know it to be true."

Orchard's arrival in Boise Tuesday evening was known to but few people. He was taken to the office of the leading counsel for the prosecution.

In the remarkable statement to the jury delivered Tuesday by J. H. Hawley for the state, a number of overt acts were charged against the "inner circle" of the Western Federation of Miners.

Mr. Hawley, however, stated that he was holding other cases in reserve. These he agreed to submit in writing to counsel for the defense, but he said that it would be preferable for the development of his case if for the present the announcements were withheld from the public.

Twenty-Six Cases.

charged against the Western Federation of Miners numbers at least twenty-six but the specific cases mentioned by counsel for the state in his opening address were some six or seven. These murders are not confined to the state of Idaho, but extend to nearly every mining point in Colorado, where there have been mining troubles, and to other states.

That the defense is preparing to make a fight throughout other courts should the client be convicted, is made very evident by the continued objections of the counsel on that side. The number of exceptions so far recorded is extraordinary and at every point an objection is raised and in case of an adverse ruling the exception is noted. Interest in the case in Boise is on the increase. The court house is crowded at every session.

Earlier Witnesses.

The first witness called after the opening of court was J. M. Brunzell, a hotel proprietor of Nampa, Idaho, which is between Boise and Caldwell. Brunzell identified the names of Thomas Hogan and John L. Simkins in his hotel register for November, 1905. Hogan, or Orchard, was at the hotel with Simkins on November 13.

The presence of Simkins at Nampa on November 7 and at Silver City November 18, 1905, was established by A. Hinkey and J. A. Connors, hotel keepers in these cities.

During the giving of testimony Haywood's mother, a gray-haired, kindly-faced woman, wearing spectacles, entered the court room for the first time and took a seat beside the prisoner's wife.

Haywood's sister also was present today (Wednesday) for the first time. Following Hinkey and Connors on the stand came C. P. Wentz, bookkeeper of a mining company at Walker, Idaho, and formerly in a bank at Wardner. Wentz said he knew Jack Simpkins, one of the men alleged to have had a hand in the murder of former Governor Steuenerberg and was acquainted with his handwriting. He identified the photograph of Simpkins which was offered and accepted in evidence over an objection from the defense.

Wentz also identified Simpkins' signature on a business card, on the name of Simmons. The hotel registers were allowed in evidence by Judge Wood. The hotel registers were accepted to the ruling. Wentz was not cross-examined.

Guy Feighl of Nampa told of seeing Orchard and Simpkins in company with the assassin of Steuenerberg, Frank Steuenerberg. Haywood took notes in a book during the examination of the witnesses today (Wednesday). The photograph of Simpkins was taken after the conclusion of Feighl's testimony. Senator Borah simply announcing the next witness will be here in a moment.

Excitement in the room became intense as it was realized that Orchard was to be the next witness. When he appeared Orchard was attired in a gray suit and walked with a firm step. He was preceded to the witness chair by the sheriff and was followed by another deputy on the penitentiary. Orchard had to pass directly in the rear of Haywood and his family. His eyes were cast down. Arriving at the witness stand Orchard stood for a moment with hand uplifted while the clerk delivered the oath.

He said he was confined in the state penitentiary.

"I am charged with the murder of Frank Steuenerberg and am awaiting trial.

Born in Canada.

"I was born in Northumberland county, Canada in 1866 and am therefore thirty years old," went on the witness in answer to Attorney Hawley's question. "Harry Orchard is not my right name. I have gone by that name for about eleven years. My true name is Alfred Horsey. I came to the United States in 1896, first to Spokane, where I remained a week. I went to Wallace, Idaho, in March or April, in 1896. I first worked for Market Brothers, driving a milk wagon and remained there until about Christmas, 1896. I then went to a wood and coal yard in Burke, Idaho, and was engaged in that business until the spring of 1899 and on my own account for two years. In 1898 I sold a half interest in the business to Mr. McAlpine. My business in Canada was making cheese. I sold all my interests in the wood yard and went to work in the mines in March, 1899. I went to work 'mucking' and continued at it for a month. I became a member of the Western Federation of Miners as soon as I went to work in the mines."

Orchard said he joined the Burke branch of the Western Federation of Miners. Orchard described the Couer D'Alene country to Mr. Hawley, giving the railway connections between the different cities and mining companies.

Orchard, "by the secretary, who said it had been decided that day to go to Wardner to blow the mill at the Sullivan and Bunker Hill mines and to hang the superintendent."

Again the witness was interrupted by Haywood's counsel, who demanded to know how the defendant was to be connected with the Couer D'Alene troubles.

Senator Borah replied for the prosecution, saying it would be shown that Haywood came into the "inner circle" with a full knowledge of what had been done and entered into the conspiracy. This would be shown, Senator Borah declared, by Haywood's writings. Senator Borah said it was necessary to go into the Couer D'Alene troubles which were suppressed by Governor Steuenerberg, showing the motive for the hatred of Steuenerberg and his eventual taking off.

Wardner Story.

Judge Wood said he would allow the prosecution to show general conditions in the Couer D'Alenes and Governor Steuenerberg's attitude toward them. He would not allow the witness to go into details. The defense noted exceptions to the court's rulings and Orchard proceeded.

Arrangements had been made to cut the wires along the railroad and take possession of the Northern Pacific train. At Gem we were to be joined by the Gem union, and together we were to proceed to Wardner. While the secretary was telling us what was planned by the central union the president of our local came in and said he had not been informed of the meeting. When told the purpose he objected to it and there was a discussion. The motion to go to Wardner was finally carried by a small majority. After the vote nearly every man decided to go.

"Paul Cochran and six other members of the union took charge of the train. We went to Gem and took forty boxes of giant powder."

Judge Wood interrupted to say these details were outside his ruling. If a mine had been blown up he said, the witness should say so.

Orchard, however, proceeded with his narrative saying that before the mine was blown up it was decided to go back to Gem to get more powder.

"There were about 1,000 men on the train, most of them armed. At Wardner we were told by Al Davis, who was in command to line up. The train with long guns were told to take the front rank followed by the men with shotguns. We were told to fire upon the mill as we approached. This we did and the fire was returned by the guards. It soon developed, however, that there were no men in the mill and we took possession. Powder was placed at three places about the mill and it was blown up."

"Who set fire to the fuses?"

"I lit one. I don't know who lit the others."

Orchard said two men were killed in the affair. Four or five days after this trouble the United States troops came into the Couer D'Alenes.

"Who was the governor of the state at this time?" asked Hawley.

"Governor Steuenerberg," Orchard replied. "Was his name mentioned at the meeting you have described?"

RUSSIA SENDS TREATY DRAFT

Forwarded to Tokio for Approval.

FIVE YEARS TERM NAMED

Instrument Proposes to Define Commercial Relations With Japan—Budget of Foreign News.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, June 5.—The final drafts of the Russo-Japanese commercial treaty have been completed and sent to Tokio for approval.

The answer of the emperor of Japan is expected during the latter part of the present month.

The treaty will remain in force for five years, according to the Novoe Vremia. The protocols covering the negotiations will be made public in a yellow book when the treaty is signed.

The negotiations for a railroad convention between Russia and Japan are progressing slowly. Several new obstacles have arisen and it may be necessary for Russian and Japanese commissions to go to Manchuria and to Tokio in order to settle the disputed questions on the spot.

Reduces Armament.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] ROME, Italy, June 5.—The refusal of the parliamentary committee to recommend the appropriation of $40,000,000 asked for by the war office is considered significant. The committee recommends a grant of only $5,000,000. As the money was required for artillery, the committee's action is considered to amount to practically a reduction of armament on the eve of the Hague conference.

Cost of Living High.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] HAVANA, Cuba, June 5.—A committee of conservatives elected by Gov. Necochea has asked the cabinet and Governor Magoon to demand relief measures against the enormous rise in the prices of food in the Cuban markets. The increased cost of living is said to be causing much suffering.

Mutiny Breaks Out.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] ST. PETERSBURG, Russia, June 5.—A mutiny broke out today (Wednesday) among a squadron of Hussars of the 1st Cavalry division. The mutineers to which place the imperial family had just removed. The mutineers were promptly surrounded and disarmed by other troops and order was restored without any bloodshed.

Serious Outbreak.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] HONG KONG, China, June 5.—A serious rebellious outbreak is reported to have occurred at Welchou about thirty miles south of Pakhoi. HARRY GIBSON BACK ON TWO MONTHS STAY

Interested in Copper Mining in Arizona and Thinks They Have Struck It Rich.

Harry Gibson, son of Mrs. Eloise Gibson arrived home Tuesday from Southwestern Arizona for a two months visit here. He is interested in copper mining property in that country and must return by the first of September. The claims in which Mr. Gibson is a part owner are situated in the Racocon mountain, some eighty miles from Bisbee, the nearest station being Johnson camp. Mr. Gibson is enthusiastic over the prospects for the mines and says that a shaft put down just before the late showed a vein of splendid ore. The ore that has been taken out was showing 39 percent copper. Arrangements have been made with a smelter in Benson, to run a spur of track to the property. The distance is about eight miles. "We have had a splendid winter in Arizona," said Mr. Gibson this Wednesday morning. "I wore an overcoat just two days. The month of February was the hottest. I think I have ever experienced in the northwest. We have our bunk shacks and mess hall on the claims, and live very comfortably. There are nine of us interested in the property and we recently sold off 15 claims, but still have a number left, which we are developing. I do not hold an office in the company, for I felt that I did not want to be tied down. Several of the other boys declined offices for the same reason. You can understand that I think pretty well of our proposition, when I say that I would not sell my interest for what our company is capitalized at."

LILLIAN NORDICA PLANS AN AMERICAN BAYREUTH

Great Scheme inaugurated.

BUYS LAND FOR $100,000

Patriotic American Singer Says the Dream of Her Life Is About to Be Realized.

Best Musical Instructors of Europe Will Be Brought Over to Teach Americans.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] NEW YORK, June 5.—Mme. Lillian Nordica, the Herald announces today (Wednesday), will establish on the Hudson, near New York, a Bayreuth in America.

With a part of her great fortune the great singer will erect the Lillian Nordica festival house which will be to this country what the famous opera institution founded by Richard Wagner and now maintained by his widow is to Europe.

The site for the institution was purchased Tuesday for $100,000 and Mme. Nordica expects that the opera house will be ready for its formal dedication one year from next summer. An American institute of music where American young men and women who aspire to operatic honors will be taught by the foremost teachers in the world is included in the plans of the famous singer.

In a statement in which she announced her plans Mme. Nordica said:

"Call my object philanthropic or what you may, but the idea of founding here in my own country an American Bayreuth has been my life's ambition. All the years I have been singing, I have dreamed of such an institution. Now I am able financially to start this great project which I know will be an institution which after I am dead will continue to grow and enlighten the people of this country who are now awakening to the benefits to be derived from a musical education such as was not dreamed of ten years ago.

"In this plan of mine I am assured of the hearty co-operation of men and women of wealth. The latter years of my life I have spent actively in seeing this great institution grow until it can have no rival.

"The buildings alone will cover four acres. They will be erected close to the Lillian Nordica house. In connection with the institute there will be dormitories and houses where the students at little expense will be able to live while pursuing their musical studies.

"Europe will contribute teachers and they will be paid for their services more than they can hope to earn abroad.

"The Lillian Nordica festival house will be in every way an exact reproduction of the theatre erected by Richard Wagner. The Wagner operas will be given there in the summer with the greatest artists in all the world."

SCHMITZ FACES A STRONG CASE

Taking of Testimony Begins During Day.

ABE RUEF A WITNESS

Stenographer Who Took Notes Showing Methods of the Gang Will Also Be Sworn.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] SAN FRANCISCO, June 5.—When the Schmitz trial began this (Wednesday) morning in Judge Dunne's court Assistant District Attorney Heney made his opening statement.

The prosecution will later begin the presentation of testimony against Schmitz on the charge of having extorted $1175 from L. Malifanti, of Delmonico's restaurant.

The witnesses summoned to appear this Wednesday morning so far as announced are:

Joseph Malfanti, A. B. Bianco, J. B. Loupe, E. J. Marchand, N. W. Adler, Thomas Reagan, J. F. Pohelm, John A. Drinkhouse, H. W. Hutton and H. H. Young.

The prosecution has announced that Abe Ruef will be one of their witnesses.

It is said Byrnes, formerly stenographer for the police commission for years, will also appear as a witness and that he has furnished the prosecution with the much desired calendars of the business of the police commissioners on which the French restaurant cases appeared. It is also said to have written out or transcribed his notes of the proceedings of the commission which will be offered in evidence.

The trial of Schmitz gives indications of furnishing many surprises and possibly some sensations.

Government Not Likely to Be Farther Involved in Affair in San Francisco.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—The Japanese trouble at San Francisco will be settled by a recourse to the law.

Information has been received here to the effect that the consul general in San Francisco is contemplating bringing a suit against the city of San Francisco for damages incurred by the owners of the restaurant and the Folsom Bath House for the attempt by a mob on May 20 to wreck the places.

The suit, it is thought, will be under the state law and in the name of the owners of the place wrecked. The Japanese will be perfectly satisfied with this as the termination of the case.

The trustees are Henry M. Baker of this city; Josiah E. Fernald of Concord and Archibald McLellan of Boston.

The "next friends" are George W. Glover, of Lead, S. D., son of Mrs. Eddy; Mary Baker Eddy, his daughter, and Dr. J.  There are over fifty bills now on the general order. 25 on their third reading and a number of appropriation bills that have got to be fixed up.

THE KNOCK-OUT BLOW.

The blow which knocked out Corbett was a revelation to the prize fighters. From the earliest days of the ring the knock-out blow was aimed for the jaw, the temple or the jugular vein. Stomach punches were thrown in to worry and weary the fighter, but if a scientific man had told one of the old fighters that the most vulnerable spot was the region of the stomach, he'd have laughed at him for an ignoramus. Dr. Pierce is bringing home to the public a parallel fact; that the stomach is the most vulnerable organ of the prize ring as well as in life. We protect our hearts, brains, lungs and kidneys, but the stomach we are utterly indifferent to, until disease finds the solar plexus and knocks us out. Make your stomach sound and strong by the use of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and you protect yourself in your prize ring.

The dog was acting strangely and had been confined in a kennel, and as Franklin attempted to feed it it grabbed his hand, inflicting dangerous wounds.

From "Northern Trails," copyright 1905 by Wm. J. Long. Reproduced under special arrangement with the author and Ginn & Co., Boston, publishers.

By Wm. J. Long.
 Whether or not the father wolf ever knew where his cubs were hidden only he himself could tell. He was an enormous brute, powerful and cunning beyond measure, that haunted the lonely thickets and ponds bordering the great caribou barrens over the ridge, and that kept a silent watch, within howling distance over the den which he never saw. Sometimes the mother wolf met him on her wanderings and they hunted together. Often he brought the same he had caught, a fox or a young goose; and some times when she had hunted in vain he met her, as if he had understood her need from a distance, and let her to where he had buried two or three of the rabbits that swarmed in the thickets. He gave her the attention and the indifferent watch which he kept, he never ventured near the den, which he could have found easily enough by following the mother's tracks. The old she-wolf would have flown at his throat like a fury had he showed his head over the top of the ridge.

The reason for this was simple enough to the savage mother, though there are some things about it that men do not yet understand. Wolves, like cats and foxes, and indeed like most wild animals, have an atrocious sense of smell. It is this sense which they find them unapproached; so the mother animal searches out a den by herself and rarely allows the male to come near it. Spite of this beastly habit it may be said honestly of the old she-wolf that she shows a marvelous gentleness towards her mate. He runs at the slightest show of teeth from a mother wolf half his size, and will stand meekly a snap of the jaws or a cruel grab of the terrible fangs in his flank without defending himself. Even our hounds seem to have inherited something of this primitive wolf trait, for there are seasons when they are so nervous that they will not trouble a mother wolf or fox. Many times, in the early spring when foxes are mating, and again later when they are heavy with young and incapable of a hard run, I have caught my hounds sniffing meekly after a mother fox, snuffing her trail indifferently and sitting down with heads turned aside when she stops for a moment to wait and yelp at them defiantly. And why should you call them tame when she snarled; though in winter time, when running the same fox to death, they pay no more heed to your call than to the cows clamoring over them.

The moment the young wolves take to harrying the deer—as they invariably do if the mother can get within reach—the caribou leave the country. The herds become, moreover, so wild and suspicious after a very little wolf hunting that they are exceedingly difficult to approach, and there is no living thing on earth, not even a white wolf or a trained greyhound, that can tire or overtake a started caribou. The swinging rack of these big wild wanderers looks very queer, and no one who has seen them slip, as has been more than once tested in Newfoundland, try as hard as they will they cannot keep within sight of the deer for a single quarter-mile, and no limit has ever yet been found, either by dog or wolf, to Megaleps' tirelessness. So the old wolves, relying possibly upon past experience, keep their cubs and hold themselves strictly to small game as long as it can possibly be found. Then when the bitter days of winter come, with their severity of small game and their unbearable hunger, the wolves turn to the caribou as a last resort, killing a few here by stealth, rather than speed, and then, when the game grows wild, going far off to another range where the deer have not been disturbed and so can be approached more easily.

On the afternoon, however, the old mother wolf had run plump upon the caribou and her fawns in the midst of a thicket, and had leaped forward promptly to round them up for her hungry cubs. It would have been the quietest matter in the world for an old wolf to harry one of the fine fawns, or the mother caribou herself as she hovered in the rear to defend her young; but there were other thoughts in the shaggy gray head that had seen so much hunting. So the mother wolf drove the deer slowly, puzzling the herd by his yappings, out into the open where her cubs mingled in the hunting.

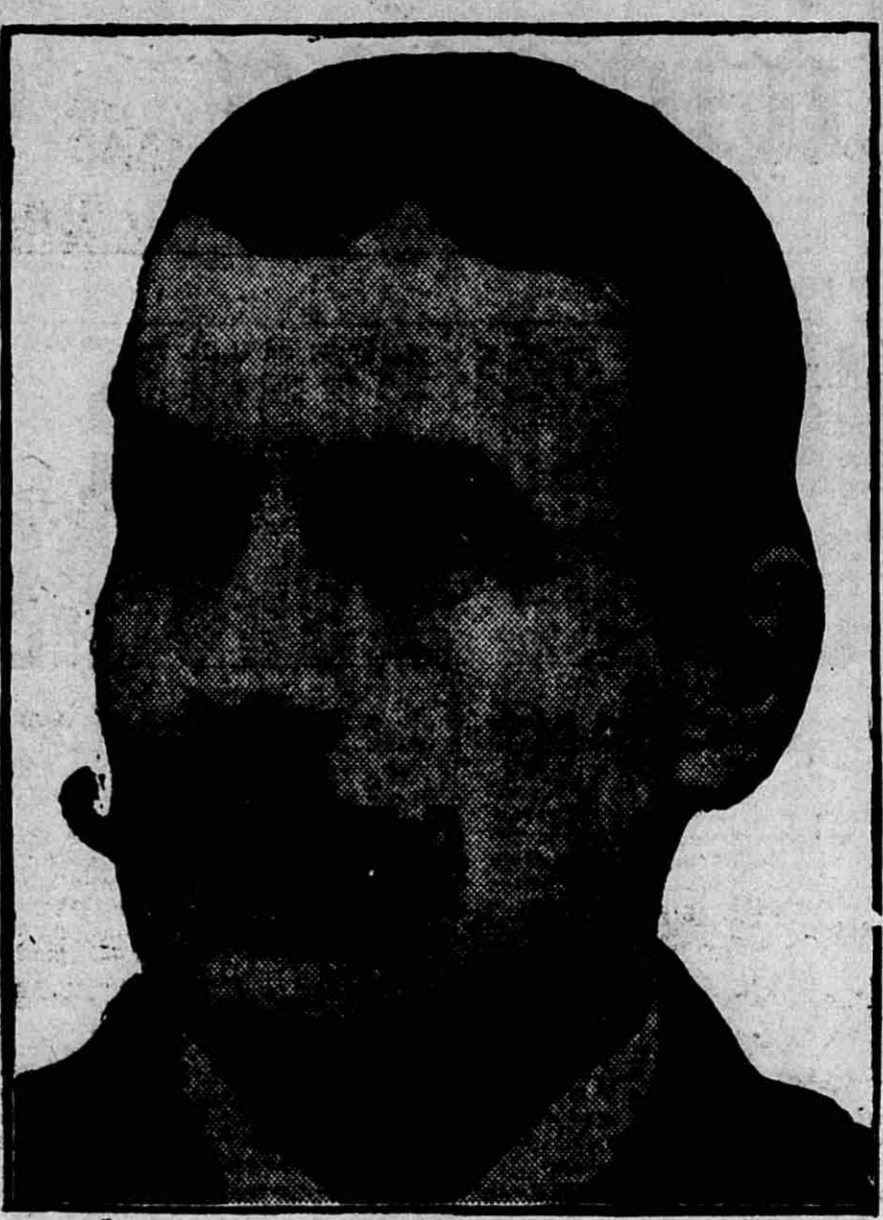

The wolves now drew back all save the mother, which advanced hesitatingly to where the caribou stood with lowered head watching every move. Suddenly the old she-wolf, so astute, furious that she old wolf seemed almost caught, and tumbled away with the broad hoofs striking savagely at her flanks. Farther and farther the caribou drove her enemy, raised now to frenzy by the nearness and the apparent cowardice. Then she whirled in a panic and rushed back to her little ones, only to find that all the other wolves, as if frightened by her furious charge, had fled to the rear back from the cranny in the rocks.

Again the old she-wolf approached cautiously, and again the caribou plucked at her and followed her lame and plumped into the woods. An electric shock seemed suddenly to touch the huge he-wolf. Like a flash he leaped in on the fawns. One quick snap of the long jaws with the terrible fangs; then as if the whole thing were a bit of play, he leaped away easily with the cubs, circling to join the mother wolf, which, strangely enough, did not return to the attack as the caribou turn to the attack as the caribou charge to the attack, driving the herd and the old he-wolf away like a flock of sheep. The coast was now clear, not an enemy in the way, and the mother caribou, with a triumphant beat to her fawns to follow, she plunged into the woods whence she had come.

One fawn only followed her. The other took a step or two, sank to his knees and rolled over on his side. When the wolf was near quietly, without a trace of ferocity or of the howling clamor with which such scenes are usually picture—the game was quite dead. One quick snap of the jaws and the fawn lay dead, his legs having started the heart more surely than a hunter's bullet. And the mother caribou, plunging wildly away through the brush with the startled wanderers, now looks back and knows that her mad flight was needless; that the terrible enemy which has spared her and let her go free had no need nor desire to follow.

Doctor Said Consumption

Mr. Andrew Mayer of 470 Grove St., Brooklyn, N. Y., contracted a severe cough, which continued so long that the doctor said he had bronchitis or consumption and after he tried his doctor's prescription, and received no relief, he decided to use DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, which finally cured him and restored his health and strength.

Letters like the following are received daily telling of some marvelous cure due to the timely use of DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, as prescribed:

"I had a severe cough for some time and became extremely alarmed because my physician told me I had bronchitis and another said I had consumption. As I received little benefit from the remedies prescribed for me I began to think what the doctors had said was only too true. I finally decided to take DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY, with little hope of the result that followed. Slowly the coughing spells lessened in frequency and the quantity thrown up also became less, and my strength which had sadly failed, is now as good as ever. I feel that I am saved, and that I owe my good fortune to the timely use of DUFFY'S PURE MALT WHISKEY."—ANDREW MAYER, 470 Grove St., Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 10th, 1906.

Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey

is distilled wholly from malted grain by a most expensive method which has never been made public and this private process insures quality and flavor. Its age, softness, palatability and freedom from those injurious substances found in other whiskeys make it acceptable to the most sensitive stomach. It acts as an antitoxin which destroys and drives out all disease germs. Its results are free from that depressing effect caused by poisoning the blood with many medicines. It is a tonic and invigorant for old and young, and its medicinal properties make it invaluable to overworked men, delicate women and sickly children. Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey has been analyzed many times by the best chemists during the past fifty years and has always been found to be absolutely pure.

CAUTION.—When you ask your druggist, grocer or dealer for Duffy's Pure Malt Whiskey be sure you get the genuine. #### CHORUS GIRL WIFE

Meets With Her Husband's Father—Reconciliation Followed.
[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] BOSTON, Mass., June 5.—Moved by the tearful plea of his chorus girl daughter-in-law, Queenie Sanford, Lieutenant Governor Draper of Hopedale has telegraphed his son, B. H. Draper, at Seattle, that the latter is out at the Hopedale mansion and that a warm welcome awaits him and his bride.
 Since his sensational marriage to a chorus girl after being gilded by Miss Alice Marjorie Ray of Franklin, young Draper with his wife has been living in the west.
 Contented with his wife and fearing that his parents would nevermore care to look upon his face, young Draper had decided to buckle down to hard work. The pair have been living quietly in Seattle, Wash., at the Savoy hotel, and have been frequent visitors at the Butler cafe, which is patronized by smart people. It is said that Lieutenant Draper has convinced himself that his son's marriage was a love affair.
 It is said the pair will hurry eastward and that young Draper will accept an important position in his father's Hopedale works.

DERBY WON BY CROKER

His Colt Wins $30,000.

JOHNNY REIF RIDES

Nine Horses Started in Great Classic Event of the English Turf.

Winner Bred from American Mare, Ridden by American and Owned by American.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] LONDON, Eng., June 5.—Richard Croker's Orby, ridden by "Johnny" Reif, the American jockey, won the derby stakes of sixty-five hundred sovereigns at Epsom today (Wednesday). Distance about a mile and a half.

Woolwinder, ridden by Madden, the English jockey, was second, and Sleeve Galton, an Irish horse, ridden by Higgs, an English jockey, was third. Orby was bred in Ireland out of an American dam, and thus the derby has been won by an American owner whose horse was ridden by an American jockey and whose mount was out of an American mare.

The betting was 100 to 9 against Orby and Woolwinder and 13 to 8 on Sleeve Galton.

Torments of rain poured down up to 10 o'clock and the muddy, dismal procession bound to the Downs looked uncommonly like the return of the procession after the downfall of the favorite.

Attendance Small.

The usual Derby day types were present but they were sadly reduced in numbers and the intermittent attempts of the holiday makers to inject some of the old time hilarity into the scene failed to remove the general gloom of the umbrella-marked crowds. All whose plans were altered abandoned the roads for the trains and scores of specials took enormous crowds to Epsom.

In the crowd were the Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of Connaught and the Grand Duke Michael of Russia.

The rain cleared off before noon and by the time the racing commenced the downs presented a cheerful and picturesque appearance. Trains from all directions took enormous crowds to the course but the throng was hardly up to the average. Many coaches were sent down over night and took up positions at all the vantage points, heavily laden with fashionable people, among whom were many Americans.

WHAT IS PROSPERITY?

A definition of prosperity is not so easy, but it will be a help to make a note of some things that have claimed to be its basis. The ups and downs of Wall street are not the regulator of good or bad times.

Prosperity is not built on the past freedom of railroads in the matter of rates and rebates. The railroads of the country are subject to new rate laws, but the present is their most profitable era.

As long as there is plenty of work at good wages for all who are willing and able, as long as the policies of the country are wisely conceived and honestly and intelligently executed, and as long as the people are faithful to high standards of action and enterprise, the groundwork of prosperity will not be shaken.

ONLY A BABY.

More and more is the world learning that it is not out of the mouths of knitted gun or smoothed rifle, but "out of the mouths of babes and sucklings that strength is ordained which shall still the enemy and the avenger."

EVILS OF OVEREATING

Many people eat too much, whether they are aware of it or not. Few do so deliberately, but the tell-tale headache, sour eructations, heaviness, hiccoughs, heartburn or drowsiness after meal time are sure symptoms of an overloaded stomach.

For over fifty years Beecham's Pills have been the standard remedy for stomach complaints. They have marvelous efficacy in aiding the digestion of the contents of a full stomach, to overcome nausea, to relieve indigestion, to settle the stomach and stop sick headache.

ing for the baby the mother bore her grief and lived.

Out of the mouth of the suckling strength was ordained.

A few days ago the mother died suddenly. What would become of the baby? Would it be sent to a foundling asylum?

The question was quickly answered. A rich woman, made lonely by bereavement, took it to herself. She knew the baby often wished for it, and was made happy in adopting the child.

"He has hidden those things from the wise and revealed them unto babes,"

Do you remember the story about Silas Marner?

Marner was a miser who hid his money under the floor of his cabin, and when night came he floated over it. One day when he was absent the money was stolen. And on the hearthstone was left a baby.

The miser was wild with grief over his loss. But there was the child. He could not let it die. Its helplessness appealed to him. He took charge of it. By degrees the child's winsome charm stole into his gloomy heart. He grew to love the babe. The child was a great blessing to him and a comfort in his old age.

The story illustrates the divine law—the law of assimilation. You are changed, fashioned into the likeness of that which you admire and love.

IF YOU LOVE GOLD BETTER THAN ANTHING ELSE, YOUR HEART WILL BE HARD LIKE GOLD.

If you love sweet and innocent and tender things your heart will be fresh and tender and joyful.

The baby and the miser were worth many times its weight in gold. It transformed and gladdened at least two sorrowful lives. Its weakness was its strength.

So long as the tiny fingers of babyhood are allowed to twine themselves about the hearts of men and women the world cannot become very bad.

WHAT SHALL WE DO ABOUT CHINA?

Only a few weeks ago America was called upon to come to the relief of China's starving millions; but scarcely had the dollars and wheat completed their long voyage before we hear of revolts and uprisings, threats of massacre, and that the lives of American men and women are placed in jeopardy by the very nation to whose support we so generously came.

When the famine comes again in China, shall we let them starve? Our civilization puts a responsibility upon us. They are men and women, as we are, though ignorant, semi-barbarous, unenlightened, rapacious, ungovernable—but that can make no difference. When China starves again, we must give again; when China forgets again, we must forgive again, secure always in the confidence that we have done what humanity calls for, and that, in time, China will, too, awaken.

Indications point to a lively protest being made when congress convenes next winter against the new tariff agreement with Germany. Visiting statesmen do not hesitate to criticize the agreement as a usurpation of the functions of the national legislature by the executive branch of the government and announce that they intend to have the matter thoroughly looked into at the first opportunity, which will not be until December, when the new session opens.

The energetic protests that were voiced at the time the treaty was pending by the business interests against making concession to German exporters in the matter of valuations and invoicing have been presented to the members of congress all over the country and they have been called upon to act.

In his address at the unveiling of the statue of Jeff Davis at Richmond, Va., Monday, Governor Swanson of Virginia did what his state expected and the country expected him to do—defended secession and the lost cause. However much it offends the people of the north and the surviving veterans to learn that Governor Swanson said: "The south fought for the great principle of home rule against outside, illegal interferences"—the north can well afford to permit the south to indulge in the innocent reminiscence. The decision of war and the courts was against Governor Swanson's declaration. Finally, Virginia's governor did not show very good taste.

RICHARD CROKER COMING HOME

Says He Wants to Vivit America Next Fall—No Idea of Going Into Parliament.

[Associated Press Dispatch.] NEW YORK, June 5.—Dispatches from London convey an interview with Richard Croker, who is in London to see the Derby run today (Wednesday) in which the former Tammany leader says that he wishes to visit New York next autumn, but has not yet definitely decided to go.

"I always like," Mr. Croker is quoted as saying, "to see the boy of the old guard in New York politics. But the ranks are thinning. The other day when I ran over the names of the party of 200 who entertained me at dinner nine years ago I found that 75 were dead."

In speaking of the recent reports that he might give up his American citizenship and stand for parliament, Mr. Croker says: "I have no intention of giving up my American citizenship. I expect to die an American."

GRADE SEPARATION. (Special to The Evening Telegraph.) DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—Negotiations have been started between the city and the Wabash and Pere Marquette railways involving the separation of fifteen grade crossings between Twelfth street and the western limits. The cost to the railways will be approximately $2,500,000 and the city will pay the abutting damages.

MOORE ADMITS COMPANY'S PLANS

Says M. U. R. Is After Boland Line.

THEN FOR DETROIT

Interviews Given Out by Heads of Railways Company Do Not Agree With Mr. Bramlette's Version.

In an interview Tuesday George Moore, the man who is practically guiding the destinies of the Michigan United Railways, admitted that there was truth in the report that his company was negotiating for the purchase of the Boland right of way from Grass Lake, near Jackson, to the city limits of Detroit.

Mr. Moore also practically admitted that the Michigan United would, in the event of its obtaining this right of way, attempt to secure franchises in the city of Detroit on a 3 cent fare basis.

There was a gathering of the clans in Lansing yesterday, a meeting of the high lights of the M. U. R. Mr. Moore, Myron W. Mills, Theron W. Atwood, Chief Counsel Ladd and James R. Elliott were in session at the Hotel Downey and it is said that the Boland right of way purchase and Detroit franchise matter were under consideration.

Mr. Moore is evidently of the opinion

DAINTY FOOD

Turns Pale Checks to Pink. Our best physicians of the present day seek to cure patients by the use of food, rather than drugs, and this is the true method, for all physicians agree that only from food can the body be rebuilt.

Many people fail to give their physical credit for after living on poorly selected or badly cooked food for a long time, perhaps, and when their ailments become chronic, they expect the doctor, with some magic potency, to instantly rebuild them.

This is not possible. The only true method is to turn, as quickly as can be, to proper food. A Cincinnati, O., young lady says: "I was variously treated for my nervous muscles, lungs, etc., but the treatment gave me no relief from my ailment."

"Finally, my appetite failed completely and I began to have sinking spells similar to fainting. I took all manner of tonics and stimulants, but they were of no effect. I had been brought to quit drinking coffee and taking Postum Food Coffee in its place, and gradually began to get a little better."

"Someone suggested that if I found Postum so beneficial I had better use Grape-Nuts food, as they were both the children of one brain. I commenced on Grape-Nuts food for breakfast, having Postum with it. I found the food so dainty, delicious, and appetizing that I always looked forward to breakfast with pleasure."

"Shortly after commencing this diet, my wretched pain in the side was greatly relieved, and now, it has gone entirely, also the sinking spells; in fact, I have gained back more than the twenty pounds I lost, and am thoroughly well in every way." Read "The Road to Wellville" in pkg. "There's a Reason."

tion that the announcement concerning the Boland matter and Detroit franchises is a rife premature. "The whole proposition is still in the air," said Mr. Moore, "and it is such a serious undertaking on our part that we are moving slowly. We are after the Boland right of way from Grass Lake on to Detroit. This is all graded and rails are laid as far as Dexter."

"Vice President Elliott, of the M. U. R., also admits that the story that his company will attempt to secure the franchises of the Detroit United Railways is true and that as fast as they expire, the concern will offer the city 3 cent fares as an inducement to transfer the franchises to the M. U. R. The Hawkins-Angus people, who own the present interurban from Jackson to Detroit, are also after the Boland rights, and the latter interests are holding out while the two companies bid against each other. In the event of the Michigan United securing the Boland property it would be an important connection for Lansing, placing another line of communication with Detroit, as soon as the Lansing-Jackson interurban is constructed. It would also mean through service from Detroit to Kalamazoo.

It is expected that some definite move, one way or the other, will take place in a few days. Who one says that this latest move is a clever one, engineered by Mayor Thompson of Detroit, to bring the D. U. R. to terms there. The fight between the mayor of the big city and the D. U. R. has been bitter since the executive assumed office.

General Manager Bramlette said Tuesday evening in a report that the M. U. R. was attempting to gain an entrance to Detroit was all a "pipe dream." "I have never heard of any such thing and do not believe there is anything in it," was all he would say.

The Detroit Free Press this (Wednesday) morning makes the announcement that the D. U. R. is to get the Boland road. It says: "There seems to be a great deal of unwarranted and unnecessary agitation over the possibility of the Michigan United Railway securing the Boland right of way from Grass Lake, more popularly known as the Boland line, completing that road and coming into Detroit after 3-cent-fare franchises as fast as the franchises of the Detroit United expire."

"If the Michigan United hinges its Detroit plans on the acquisition of the Boland line it might as well give up the contest as a preliminary contract is deliberately violated, and no one who knows N. S. Potter, vice president of the Jackson City bank, believes this possible.

"On May 1 a preliminary agreement was entered into between the Jackson, Ann Arbor & Detroit, through Mr. Potter as its representative, and President J. C. Hutchins representing the Detroit United interests, whereby the sale of the Jackson, Ann Arbor & Detroit to the Detroit United interests was arranged. There were certain details to be closed before the property could be turned over to the purchaser. These details now are being cleaned up and it is expected that within a short time the final papers will be signed and the line formally delivered."

Alvord's Bill Relative to State Fair Association—Investigation of Soldiers' Home.

[From a Staff Correspondent.] LANSING, Mich., June 5.—The convention which will prepare a new constitution for the state of Michigan will undoubtedly consist of 96 members, elected three from each senatorial district. This was the compromise agreed upon Tuesday night by the conference committee of the house and senate and a report to the effect will be submitted to both branches of the legislature today.

All other items of the bill, including the dates of the primaries, election, and when the convention shall begin work, the pay of delegates and the rules governing its enactments, should have been agreed to at earlier meetings of the conference committee and needed the decision on some one method of electing delegates and the number to form the convention, to settle the question of difference between house and senate.

The senate stood originally for a congressional district, elected by congressional districts. The house wanted 100 delegates, elected according to representative districts.

The house finally got busy Tuesday and fixed June 19 and 29 as the dates for adjournment, which will be agreed to by the senate.

While there is more or less talk about a special session that matter is really a remote one at this time. If the people should adopt a new constitution a special session would be imperative in order to provide the necessary statutory enactments. Should the constitution be rejected, which is regarded as most likely, it would then be up to the governor to decide whether he possesses sufficient subject matter to warrant the calling of a special session.

Naturally the question of amending the primary law is associated with the idea of a special session, but that contingency will not arise until next year and it is doubtful whether any different results could be arrived at.

The bill can now be amended so as to provide for one primary day, but the administration wants the 40 per cent provision stricken out if anything is done and to this the boxers will not consent.

Senator Seeley introduced a new railroad commission bill as a second substitute count not be reported out. President Roosevelt is credited with having advised the governor to go slow with railroad legislation and to let the interstate commerce commission work out the problems now under consideration.

The taxation committee is to vote on the mortgage tax repeal bill today. A lot of wire pulling is going on relative to the proposed senatorial reapportionment, and it is doubtful if any action is taken.

The governor's binder twine bill is still in the committee and indications are that it will be passed.

Representative Anderson's bill providing for the licensing of detective agencies was killed on third reading.

Representative Alvord introduced a Kunnedy, drugists; 50.

bill which provides an entirely new governing body for the State Fair association. It authorizes the governor to appoint a director from each congressional district, makes the lieutenant-governor ex-officio president and the director of the Michigan experiment station a member, and authorizes the State Grange, Farmers' club, Dairy-men's association, Live Stock association and State Horticultural society to elect one director each, 21 in all. The holdings of the society are limited to $500.00.

The senate passed an appropriation of $10,000 for a silver service and flags for the battleship Michigan. The bill includes the appointment of a commission as long as your arm, which may cause its downfall in the house.

Representative Powers' bill prohibiting the free distribution of samples of medicine, and Nank's prohibiting the employment of runners by physicians, were passed.

It develops that the house committee on state affairs quietly smothered the senate bill filed October 12 as Columbus day and making it a legal holiday, the reason assigned being that it would force the public schools to be closed.

Senator Russell had a resolution adopted providing for the appointment of a committee to investigate the soldiers' home at Grand Rapids and find out what is done with the money taken from the inmates, all over $100 a month being retained by the institution. On the house side a bill was passed making it mandatory for the board of control to submit a detailed report of this fund.

RAN INTO POLE

Chief Minar Suffers Accident While Running to Fire Alarm.

While answering a fire alarm about 7 o'clock Tuesday night the chief's wagon containing Chief Minar and Driver Adam Bezemer, came in contact with a telephone pole and the occupants were given a severe jolt. Chief Minar was ahead of the department and was turning Lovell street onto Portage when the horse slipped on the pavement. In order to save the animal, the driver pulled on one of the lines thus throwing the horse into the pole. The thrill was broken off squarely. Neither of the occupants was thrown from the buggy.

Chief Minar caught the chemical wagon and proceeded to the fire, which was at the corner of Winstead and Edgar streets. A family had just moved into the house and had started a fire for the first time. Some old soot in the chimney caught fire and one of the neighbor's turned in the alarm.

Fifteen minutes after the accident had happened the buggy had been repaired. The police and fire commission, some time ago, ordered a new buggy for the chief. It is now under construction and is much heavier than the present wagon. Chief Minar stated that the horse was not being driven too fast. "The turn was a hard one to make."

Badly Mixed Up. Abraham Brown of Winterton, N. Y., had a very remarkable experience. He says: "Doctors got badly mixed up over me; one said heart disease; two called it kidney trouble; the fourth blood poison, and the fifth stomach and liver trouble; but none of them helped me; so my wife advised trying Electric Bitters, which are restoring me to perfect health. One bottle did me more good than all the five doctors prescribed. Guaranteed to cure blood poison, weakness and all stomach, liver and kidney complaints, by the Colman Drug Co., and E. M. Kennedy, drugists; 50c."

RAISING INITIATION FEE

Matter Which Will Receive Considerable Discussion in Detroit Convention.

[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—At a business meeting today (Tuesday) of the grand court of Michigan Foresters of America in annual convention at the German Salesman hall, the reports of all officers were read showing the organization to be in a prosperous condition.

Grand Secretary Henry Paul announced the present membership of 6,700 of which 1,000 have been initiated during the past year. The reports from subordinate courts showed a net balance of $48,000 in the treasury. The treasurer of the grand court has $5,000 on hand and no liabilities.

There is one constitutional change proposed which is likely to lead to a sharp debate before a decision is reached.

At Last, the Secret of Beauty

The chief charm of a beautiful face is in the complexion. The mouth may be large or the nose perhaps too Romanesque to satisfy the strict ethics of beauty, but these faults are amply atoned for by a fresh, blooming complexion—the ivory skin tinted like the petals of a rose.

"But," perhaps you say, "not only are my features somewhat lacking in regularity, but my complexion is not what it should be—it is rather inclined to be sallow and muddy."

There is no need for you to be discouraged. Your complexion can be wonderfully improved, even made as charming and fresh as a young girl's by the use of the following lotion:

Obtain at your drug store Rose Water, 2 ounces; Cologne Spirits, 1 ounce; Eppotone (skin food), 4 ounces. Put the Eppotone in a pint of hot water (not boiling), and after dissolved, strain and let cool. Then add the Rose Water and Cologne Spirits.

Powders and rouges are but temporary improvement at best; the so-called "beauty doctors" offer cause more harm than good. The above face wash is perfectly harmless to the tenderest skin and has given beautiful complexions to thousands of women. What it has done for them it is reasonable to suppose it can do for you.

The quantities in the above recipe are sufficient to last you for months, and the cost is quite small. Ask your druggist for them and prepare the lotion at home, following directions very carefully.

DUKE OF MANCHESTER TO SETTLE IN DETROIT

Father-in-Law Zimmerman Says He'll Learn Railroad Business.

[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] DETROIT, Mich., June 5.—The Detroit News says the Duke of Manchester is going to settle for a time in Detroit and be connected with the Detroit office of the Detroit, Toledo and Ironton and the Ann Arbor railroads which are controlled by the duke's father-in-law, Eugene Zimmerman of Cincinnati. Mr. Zimmerman is quoted as saying to friends here that plans are on foot for the duke to settle in Detroit to learn the railroad business for the sake of the advantage the experience would give him later in discussing business in the house of lords.

RESIDENTS OF KENT CITY WOULD SUE PERE MARQUETTE

Spark from Passing Locomotive Alleged to Have Set Fire to Town.

[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., June 5.—Eighteen residents of Kent City, who suffered the loss of homes or business establishments in the fire that nearly destroyed the village on April 22 have filed a petition in the United States circuit court asking permission to bring suit against Judson Harmon, receiver of the Pere Marquette railroad reached. It is on the proposal, made by a large number of the delegates, that the initiation be raised from the $3 to $5 of established courts. It is argued by the supporters of this measure that it will have a stimulating effect on the many new courts being organized and that it will cause the charter member lists to reach increased proportions. Opponents of the measure claim there is no use in arguing to one or the other possible decisions, inasmuch as the Foresters hold a national convention in which another proposal will be brought forward.

Should the convention raise the fee it would apply to Michigan. Should the Chicago body vote against an increase it would have the effect of nullifying any step the state organization might take in that direction at the present time.

MRS. KAUFMANN ON TRIAL FOR MURDER

Defense Will Claim That Girl Inflicted Wound on Herself.

[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] FLANDREAU, S. D., June 5.—When Mrs. Emma Kaufmann, the wife of a millionaire Sioux Falls brewer, was brought on trial Tuesday on charge of murdering Agnes Polreis, her sixteen-year-old servant, the defense partially outlined its case.

Since June 20 of last year Mrs. Kaufmann has been at liberty under $25,000 bail. When released from jail at Sioux Falls she was narrowly escaped being mobbed.

It is declared that the defense will claim that a blood clot on the girl's brain had the effect of preventing her having control over herself, so far as the use of her lower limbs were concerned, and that because of this she had frequent falls.

The wounds found upon her body will be explained by these frequent falls. It is alleged that on one occasion she fell down stairs through having no control over her limbs.

The dead girl who was a native of Austria-Hungary, had arrived in South Dakota from the old country with her parents during the closing months of 1905. The girl came to Sioux Falls and entered the employ of Mrs. Kaufmann on February 15 of last year, only a few weeks after the family moved in South Dakota, and only a little over three months before she died at a Sioux Falls hospital from numerous wounds, bruises and cuts which are alleged to have been inflicted by Mrs. Kaufmann.

After her death in Sioux Falls on June 1 her remains were prepared for burial and shipped to the parents of the girl at Parkston, where the wounds upon her head were discovered.

After the burial of the remains the stories of the wounds on her head were so persistent that an investigation was made. When the body had been lifted from its place in the grave the other wounds, gashes and bruises which will play so important a part in the trial of Mrs. Kaufmann were discovered.

To convince the authorities of Minnehaha county that the girl had been the victim of foul play, as alleged by the Parkston people, the coffin of the dead girl was later for the second time lifted from its place in the grave secured as the result of the second examination resulted in the arrest of Mrs. Kaufmann on the charge of having been responsible for the death of the girl.

The trial will prove to be the most famous murder trial in the history of South Dakota.

The theory of the prosecution is that the girl was deliberately beaten to death by Mrs. Kaufmann. In support of this the prosecution will offer the testimony of Peter Erickson, the former hired man of the Kaufmanns, and others bearing upon the alleged cruel treatment of the girl by Mrs. Kaufmann. Among other testimony will be evidence to the effect that on one occasion Mrs. Kaufmann threw hot water on the girl after she had fallen to the floor from sheer exhaustion.

Nervous Collapse.

Kalamazoo Women Break Down Because They Have Kidney Troubles and Don't Know It.

Women of every age and condition break down and brought to the verge of a nervous collapse because they have kidney troubles and don't know it. The disease saps vitality—shatters nerves—makes work, or rest, or sleep impossible. If you are tired, out of spirits and depressed, suffer from dizzy sick headaches, pain in the back and sides, irregular flow of urine, etc., don't neglect it, for delay is dangerous. Begin using Doan's Kidney Pills, and see how quickly you will feel better, work better, rest better and sleep better. Doan's Kidney Pills have cured many Kalamazoo women. Here's Kalamazoo proof of it.

Mrs. Julia McKibbs of No. 3, Caves court, Kalamazoo, Mich., says: "I cannot find words to express my appreciation of Doan's Kidney Pills. No other medicine that I ever used in all my life did for me what this remedy has done. I used to have dull bearing-down pains all through the loins which were just aching. In my hips and through my back there were sometimes sharp pains, and I found it very hard to keep on my feet. I naturally thought the trouble was due to some inward derangement and I never expected to be cured. Attacks of sick headache were frequent, and I was so nervous at times that the slightest noise would startle me. I bought a remedy for my women's complaints, but it did not reach the trouble. Finally a friend told me about Doan's Kidney Pills, telling me that she had suffered in the same way and that this medicine had cured her. I got a box and in less than a week from the time I took the first dose, the dull sickening feeling had left my loins, and a new vigor had improved. At the time I had taken these boxes there was not a symptom of the trouble left, and what is better, not a symptom of the trouble has returned. I am just as well as I am. This statement if you wish as I am very grateful for what Doan's Kidney Pills have done for me."

For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents. Foster-McBee Co., Buffalo, N. Y., sole agents for the United States. Remember the name—Doan's—and take no other.

MRS. M'KINLEY

Left a Large Property—It Has Increased Since Death of Husband.

[Special to The Evening Telegraph.] WASHINGTON, D. C., June 5.—When President McKinley was serving his first term he made his will, and it was witnessed by George B. Cortelyou, then his private secretary, and Captain Charles Loeffler, doorkeeper at the White house.

Mr. McKinley left his entire estate to his wife during her lifetime, but when she died it was to be divided between his brother Abner and his two sisters.

The estate at President McKinley's death was valued at $30,000, but it has increased since then. Mrs. McKinley left a large estate of her own which she inherited from her father, George B. Cortelyou, who was killed in a coal mine. Mrs. McKinley also received a pension of $5,000 a year from the government, which was more than enough for her living expenses, so that both her own fortune and that of her husband are intact.

Now that Mrs. McKinley is dead the estate of the President will be divided between his brother Abner and his two sisters. Mrs. McKinley's estate is valued at $30,000, but it has increased since then. Mrs. McKinley left a large estate of her own which she inherited from her father, George B. Mrs. McKinley also received a pension of $5,000 a year from the government, which was more than enough for her living expenses, so that both her own fortune and that of her husband are intact.

At the death of their husbands, congress, by special legislation, conferred the franking privilege upon the widows of Presidents Grant, Garfield and McKinley. Mrs. Garfield is the only surviving one of the three, and therefore is the only woman in the United States who is entitled to the privilege.

HEALTH OF SCHOLARS

Boston School Committee Has Decided on Novel Plan. [Special to The Evening Telegraph.] BOSTON, Mass., June 5.—To safeguard the health of the pupils of the public schools the Boston school committee has decided upon a novel plan. A corps of trained nurses will be employed to care for the health of the children. The nurses will give their full time to the work.

The scheme will be put into operation at the opening of the schools next September. For several years the city has employed physicians to watch the health of the pupils in a general way, and the success of this led to the decision to adopt a broader plan, that of engaging nurses who can give all their energies to the work without making the cost too high.

Hereafter the health of the pupils in the Boston public schools will be treated as fully as important as their intellectual training.

Twenty-one nurses will be employed at first, the number to be added as occasion may require. They will be selected by competitive examination to be held next week. There will be a supervising nurse, preferably a woman physician. All the other nurses will be women and each one will be assigned to a district, so that the whole city will be covered.

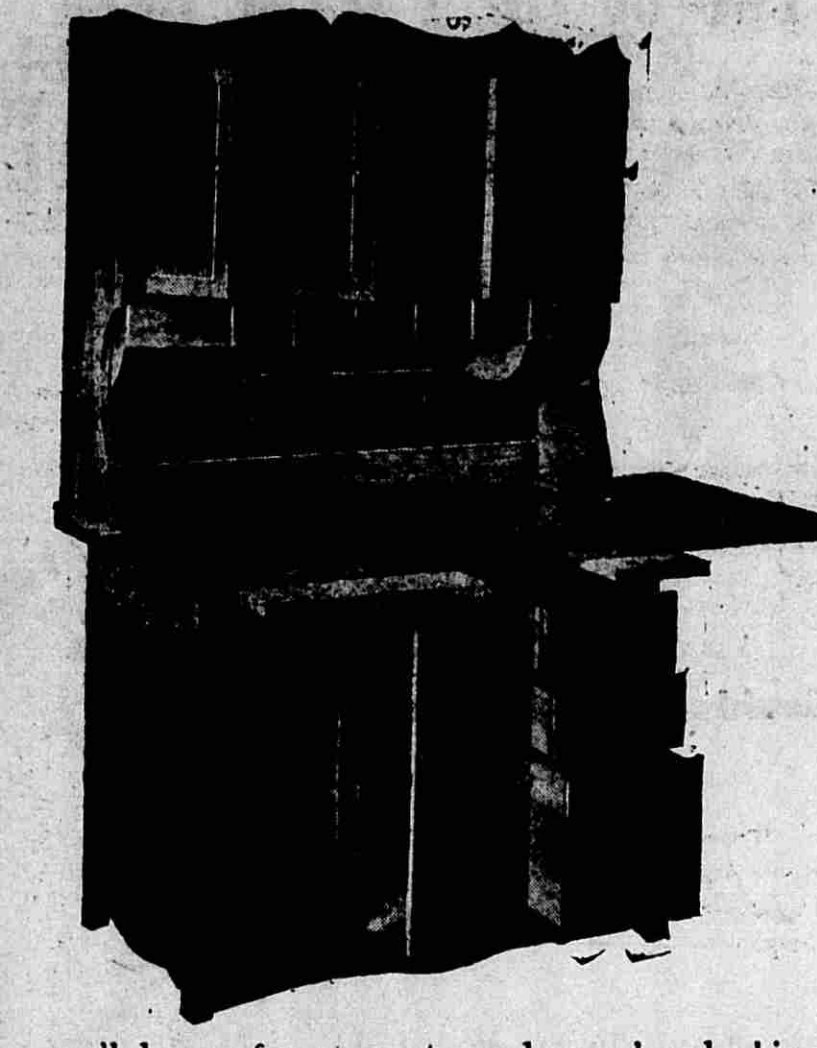

The nurses are to be in actual service eleven months of the year, being on duty at the vacation schools as well as during the regular school year, and are to have one month's vacation.

It will be the duty of a nurse to visit regularly the schools in her district, consult with the teachers as to any children who may seem to require attention, to guard against the outbreak of epidemics of measles, scarlet fever and the like, to determine whether children seem to require the use of spectacles or surgical attention and otherwise in a general way to act the part of volunteer consulting physician to children whose parents are neglectful of their proper care.

In no case case will the nurses undertake to give medicines or arrange surgical attention without consulting with the parents of the children, but they may be called upon to visit the parents of alling pupils and advise them as to what to do.

Russell Sage's secretary is taking his first vacation in 23 years. Dr. Russell were not dead, that would kill him.

Too much excitement—too much monotony. Both these extremes are fatal to the nervous system. Diseases of the nerves often result from the excessive mental work and worry and the strife and turmoil of city life.

But what leads to the paralysis, the locomotor ataxia and the insanity which comes frequently to the farmer or his wife living in rural sections, or to persons who work with machinery? It is the monotony.

The Goulds As Benedicts

TWO OF THEM HAVE BEEN FORTUNATE IN THE ROLE, BUT THE OTHERS HAVE NOT BEEN SO SUCCESSFUL

Mr. and Mrs. George J. Gould

JAY GOULD left four sons, two daughters, a hundred million dollars and a peculiar will. The first great "wizard" of Wall street wanted to keep all his money in the family. He also wanted to keep peace in the family. Accordingly he stipulated that no child should marry without the consent and approval of the others. A forfeiture of half the child's share in the estate was to be the penalty for a marriage without this approval. This meant on the average a matter of about $5,000,000 which any Gould scion might be called upon to pay for choosing to go love's sweet way against the will of the testamentary advisory board—his brothers and sisters.

George Jay Gould, the eldest son, was married already. He became a benedict in 1886. This provision of the will, consequently, did not apply to him. By the implied if not actually expressed wish of his father he was left the head of the family, a sort of father to his three brothers and his one younger sister, Anna.

The eldest child, Miss Helen Miller Gould, has remained single. She is known widely by her good works. All the others have married, with varying results. The divorcing of her husband by Countess de Castellane, Anna Gould, is still fresh in public memory. Now comes Mrs. Howard Gould trying for a separation from her husband, or for what is called in New York state a limited divorce. Also now comes Frank Jay Gould, the youngest son of the wizard, with a public statement that his married relations are happy except for too much mother-in-law. All of which serves to keep the Gould family before the public and to recall the extraordinary will of Jay Gould and its working out in real life.

Trained to Business.

The four Gould boys were brought up to business. Jay Gould himself shaped the leanings of the three elder ones, while the youngest no doubt inherited his father's bent. He lived with his sister Helen until he grew up, loved, wedded and settled down to business.

In the case of all the Goulds the term business means the managing and multiplication of money, largely in railroad lines, but also in banking and other channels.

All the Goulds are still young men. George is forty-three. Next comes Edwin, then Howard and lastly Frank, the Gould baby, who is about twenty-eight. George and Howard married actresses. Edwin and Frank married young girls of good family who had not been in the limelight or before the footlights.

Jay Gould was decidedly opposed to his son George's choice of a wife. When the eldest son made it known that he was going to marry the beautiful Miss Edith Kingdon, a member of Augustin Daly's company and a talented actress, the founder of the family protested vigorously. George Gould went the day. Afterward Jay Gould became extremely fond of his daughter-in-law and her interesting children.

He was quite reconciled to the match after it was consummated. The Goulds have been married twenty-one years, and their union appears to be one that might have been made in heaven. Their son Jay, now about grown, is a noted tennis champion, while their eldest daughter is just being introduced to society. In this instance, however, society does not mean the rapid set known as the Four Hundred of New York and Newport. It is an interesting fact that not one of the Gould wives, nor either of the two daughters of Jay Gould, has cared for the society of the Four Hundred.

The George Goulds have lived at Lakewood, N. J., the noted winter resort in the pines, during nearly all of their married life. They have there a beautiful home, where the Gould children enjoy the benefits of bracing air and outdoor sports. Mrs. Gould is popular at home and wherever she may go.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Gould

Mr. and Mrs. Howard Gould

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Gould

As to the Howard Goulds there is a different story. Howard, like George, seemed to have a predilection for actresses. When quite a young man he had an affair with Miss Odette Tyler, an actress considerably his senior. It was reported that young Gould was engaged to marry Miss Tyler. Then came the ghost of Jay Gould in the form of that advisory committee named in his will. George Gould and other members of the family objected to the proposed marriage. Howard Gould went abroad, where he met another actress, Miss Katherine Clemmons, a California beauty. He fell madly in love with her. Once more the advisory committee held a sitting—several sittings, it is understood. The change from one actress to another was not satisfactory. The protest carried with it the threat to divert $5,000,000 of Howard's patrimony, according to the will. Howard Gould is said to have been quite willing to let the $5,000,000 go and keep Miss Clemmons. He still had $5,000,000 and was causing it to grow rapidly. At any rate, he married the actress on the 12th of October, 1898. The advisory committee relented and let him keep all his inheritance.

The Howard Goulds went on a long cruise aboard their yacht, the Niagara, and while in foreign waters Emperor William of Germany visited them and spent a whole blessed hour aboard the vessel. This would have been an epochal triumph for any woman of the Four Hundred or a passport for the Hundred. Mrs. Howard Gould took no such advantage of it however. She did not care for that sort of thing.

The Builders of Castle Gould.

Some years ago the Goulds began the construction of a wonderful house at Sands Point, Long Island, about eighteen miles from the business end of New York city. It was modeled after certain Irish castles and became known as Castle Gould. In this fortress-like mansion the Goulds lived for a few years. Mrs. Gould became noted as defendant in various litigations. She disputed many bills presented to her and was sued accordingly. Architects, shopkeepers and others were the plaintiffs.

Some months ago Mrs. Howard Gould departed from Castle Gould and went to live in a New York hotel. Howard Gould took up his lodgings in another hotel, a mile away. Now Mrs. Gould has entered suit for a legal separation. There are tales to the effect that both sides have had the other "shadowed" by detectives in order to get evidence upon which to base a suit. Mrs. Gould avers that she does not want to obtain an absolute divorce. All she wants, she says, is vindication. Mr. Gould is saying nothing for publication. In the meantime Castle Gould and the splendid yacht are unoccupied save by caretakers, and it is to be inferred that the advisory committee feels some justification in having opposed the marriage of Howard Gould and Miss Clemmons.

A Happy Marriage.

Edwin Gould, the second son, has been happily married for nearly fifteen years. His wife was Miss Sarah Cantline Shradly, a stepdaughter of the noted Dr. George F. Shradly of New York. Miss Shradly was a beautiful and accomplished girl, not wealthy and not closely identified with the "swell" set. The advisory committee approved Edwin Gould's choice. This scion of the Gould family is said to have largely increased his patrimony. He inherited about $12,000,000 and was said to be worth $20,000,000 eight years after his father's death. For five years he served in one of the regiments of New York militia, becoming a captain. He rose from the ranks and was quite popular with rank and file.

Too Much Mother-in-law.

Frank Jay Gould, whose domestic difficulties alleged to be due altogether to "too much mother-in-law" have just been aired in public, was married Oct. 7, 1902, to Miss Helen Margaret Kelly of New York. This was a Montague-Capulet match, Mr. Gould being the Romeo and Miss Kelly the Juliet. The grandfather of the bride, the late Eugene Kelly, was for years Jay Gould's greatest business enemy. These two financiers were forever in litigation over the disposition of vast funds.

When the elder Kelly and the elder Gould died they bequeathed some of the unsettled suits to their children. Captain Edward Kelly, father of the present Mrs. Frank Gould, fell heir to this litigation on his side of the house. He died suddenly, leaving a widow and two daughters, Miss Helen being the elder. Captain Kelly's wedding was kept secret for several years, and when rumors finally became persistent his friends in the clubs approached him on the subject.

"Is it true that you are a married man, captain?" he was asked.

"Why, certainly," was his reply. "I have been married for years."

"But you've never mentioned it to us," he was told.

"No, and I've never denied it, either, have I?" suavely rejoined the benedict.

The bride thus uniquely acknowledged is the mother-in-law in the present instance. She is still comparatively young. Her daughter, Mrs. Gould, was married at seventeen and has two children.

"There is no trouble between my wife and me," Frank Gould says. "There has never been any talk of separation or divorce. There is too much mother-in-law, and I am tired of it. My wife is little more than a child. She is only twenty-two, and we have been married five years. The strain of this continual interference on the part of her mother is telling upon her, and it must be stopped. I have simply decided that Frank Gould will do the running of this household."

Her Side of the Story.

Mrs. Kelly, it is understood, heard a statement to the effect that her son-in-law had said that he had barred her from his household. She then gave out an interview in which she stated:

"I don't believe Frank Gould ever said such a thing. If he did, he shall account for it to me. I intend to get at the bottom of it right away. I am not an interfering mother-in-law. I have never interfered between the Goulds. There is perfect amity between my daughter and me. Naturally I am deeply interested in my grandchildren, and I feel that I should be allowed to see them as often as I like. Mr. Gould is at liberty to manage his own household as he sees fit."

The dove of peace, as between the Kellys and the Goulds, settled down upon the united families at the time of the wedding. Frank Gould met the daughter of the opposing house at a party up in the country when she was only fifteen years of age. Love at first sight, as Laura Jean Libbey would say. The Barkeleys—meaning the posthumous advisory committee—was split in. So after a couple of years spent in courtship the young people were wedded, living happily afterward until the mother-in-law episode.

CHESTER ALLEN.

Annie Besant to Be Leader of the Theosophists

AN election of a president for the theosophical cult is now in progress. Colonel Henry Steele Olcott, who succeeded the famous Mme. Blavatsky as head of the system of philosophy, died last February, and A. P. Sinnett of London has been acting president since that time. There is really only one candidate for the position—Mrs. Annie Besant, who is well known in America, to which she has paid several visits in the interests of theosophy.

The voting began about a month ago in forty-two countries. Although there are only about 12,000 persons who are entitled to cast a vote, the result of the election will not be known definitely until some time in the late summer. Theosophists vote leisurely, it appears, and even though there is no special excitement in a campaign which includes but one candidate they do not intend to dispense with any of the regular order of business.

Colonel Olcott helped Mme. Blavatsky to found the theosophists thirty odd years ago, and he remained at the head of the organization until his death. On his deathbed he named Mrs. Besant as his successor, and there has been no rival claim to the distinction. Although it requires a three-fourths majority vote to elect, it is reasonable to expect that Mrs. Besant will be successful.

The Cult in America.

There are at least 2,500 professed theosophists in America, and every one of them has been furnished with a Besant ballot by Alexander Fullerton of New York city, the general secretary of the American section of theosophy. Originally New York was the center of the cult. Since Mme. Blavatsky's death, however, there has been considerable confusion in the American section, and at the present time the members of the cult are divided into three camps, and there are grave differences which must be adjusted before anything like real unity can prevail. It remains to be seen whether or not Mrs. Besant will be able to reunite all the factions in the orthodox parent organization.

Mrs. Besant was a pupil of Mme. Blavatsky, and the two women were on terms of the most intimate agreement and fellowship. If Colonel Olcott had not been one of the original founders of the society it is probable that the scepter would have fallen directly to Mrs. Besant, but although the colonel did not profess to be the possessor of any considerable amount of occult power he was not believed to be disqualified for leadership on that account. It was understood in the organization that Mrs. Besant was far more proficient in the philosophy that lies at the root of the cult, but Colonel Olcott had been designated by the revered Mme. Blavatsky, and that was sufficient.

A Modern Thaumaturgus.

Although the wonderful Russian woman did not fulfill precisely the conditions required of a real mahatma—she died at the age of sixty, for instance, an absurd thing for a mahatma to do—she was the possessor of a power that enabled her to do things that seemed to qualify her for the distinction. Her followers declare that she could walk through a peeing rainstorm with an umbrella and remain perfectly dry. It seemed to be the easiest thing in the world for her to create handkerchiefs, beads and even bunches of grapes out of nothing. Merely by thinking of a musical note she could make it sound in the air without the employment of her vocal chords.

This was indeed marvelous, but there is more to come. The madame did not stop with these juvenile evidences of thaumaturgy. She could also produce at will anything from a collar button to a thousand dollar note from her inner consciousness and then vanish from the sight of the bystanders with a graceful wave of her hand. She could convert flowers into diamonds, and other valuable assets with such apparent ease that it is impossible to understand how she managed to resist the temptation to profit from the transformation. More than once in her varied career the possession of such a resource must have relieved her of considerable anxiety. The truth of all these wonderful powers was vouched for by no less an authority than the late Colonel Olcott. Little wonder that he was best qualified to step right into the leadership at the departure of the new cult's high priestess!

An American Miracle.

Even while she was a resident of New York Mme. Blavatsky acquired a reputation as a wonder worker that eclipsed that of any professional mystifier ever seen in America. One day she sent the colonel out for a piece of white satin. When it was brought she placed it between two sheets of paper. Then she laid her hand on the top sheet and kept it there for an hour. At the expiration of that time she raised her hand and a wonderful painting appeared on the face of the satin. Artists were called in to examine the picture, but they could make nothing of it as the pigments were different from any with which they were acquainted.

The madame declared positively that there was nothing at all miraculous about this proceeding and explained that she had merely condensed from the atmosphere the particles that make a picture and had precipitated them, mentally, of course, on to the satin. Science, affirmed Mme. Blavatsky, not miracle. She always professed to have acquired her remarkable powers from her monastic teachers in the Tibetan sanctuaries. One of these masters was named Morya, and he was a mahatma of the highest rank. He has lived in the world from time immemorial, and if he ever leaves it, it will be because he is tired of it. Mme. Blavatsky lived in the house of this master three years, and he taught her much that is unknown to ordinary mortals.

MRS. ANNIE BESANT, THEOSOPHIST.

Theosophists believe that Colonel Olcott was able to meet these Tibetan masters on the physical plane—that is, that they met in the material world themselves sufficiently for them to talk to him. It is stated gravely as a matter of fact that before Olcott began to organize the Theosophical society in New York city Morya appeared to him and left his hat as a sign of the interview.

A Student of the Occult.

Mrs. Besant also, it is held, has met some of these masters of occultism on the astral plane and has been instructed by them. Thus it is that she is looked upon as the most advanced English speaking theosophist in the world. Theosophy of today, however, is pursuing a more subdued and academic course than it did in the exciting lifetime of Mme. Blavatsky. It seems to have been occupied recently in reviving a knowledge of Sanskrit, Pali, Zend and other ancient literatures and trying to form a nucleus of what it terms the "universal brotherhood of humanity." For that reason it is not attracting so much attention to itself as it did during the lifetime of its founders.

The headquarters of the cult are now at Adyar, a suburb of Madras, India, where it was incorporated two years ago. There the theosophists own a charming park of about twenty-seven acres in which they have built numerous halls and libraries. Each alternate year a convention is held at this spot and matters relating to the welfare of the cult are discussed. New York city, the former headquarters, has always been lacking in adepts and enthusiasm, and it has dwindled down into one of the 700 branch societies radiating from the central light at Adyar.

Her Remarkable Career.

Mrs. Besant has had a varied and decidedly interesting career. She was taken from her home in early life and educated by Miss Marryat, daughter of the famous novelist. The girl was always deeply religious and wanted to be a nun. Instead, however, she became the wife of a young clergyman, Rev. Frank Besant, brother of Sir Walter. It was an unfortunate marriage in every way. The two disagreed on practically all subjects, and the woman rebelled finally and went her way. About that time she became interested in Charles Bradlaugh, the noted English atheist and social reformer. For awhile she lectured in support of his doctrines and achieved a popular success as a public speaker. In 1880 Mrs. Besant became a convert to theosophy and since that time has lived mostly in India, where she has obtained a large following. She lived at Benares for several years and went about in the habit of a Buddhist nun engaged in teaching and in works of mercy. She is a woman of marked intellectual power, a fluent and plausible speaker, and those who know her are impressed by her evident sincerity.

FINNY QUICK CHANGE ARTISTS.

The way fishes sleep is a study which few people have taken up, but which is, nevertheless, very interesting. They are very light sleepers and frequently assume singular positions, but the most remarkable thing is the change of color which the majority of them undergo while asleep. Usually their spots and stripes become darker and more distinct when they have successfully sought temporary oblivion.

Sometimes the pattern of their coloring is entirely changed. The ordinary porry, for instance, presents in the daytime beautifully iridescent hues playing over its silvery sides, but at night, on falling asleep, it takes on a dull bronze tint, and six conspicuous black bands make their appearance on its sides.

If it is suddenly awakened by the turning up of the gas, in the aquarium, it immediately resumes the silvery color that it shows by day. Naturalists describe these changes to the principle of "protective coloration" and point out that the appearance of black bands and the deepening of the spots serve to conceal the fish from their enemies when lying amid the seaweeds.

THE JAPANESE WAY.

The dainty little ladies of Japan sometimes find it difficult to obtain for themselves life partners and have to resort to the advertisement columns of the newspapers. Here is such an announcement from the Anazawa Shimbun Journal: "I am a handsome girl, with hair that is abundant and as wavy as the scudding cloud; my face has the brilliance and satin-like gloss of flowers, and my waist is as supple as a willow tree. I am endowed with wealth sufficient to saunter through life with some loved one, whose hand will be forever clasped in mine. Were I to meet a gracious lord, kindly, well educated and of good taste and manners I will unite myself to him for life and later will share with him the pleasure of being laid to rest eternal in a tomb of rose colored marble." he desired to occupy it as governor general of India.

CURRENT BITS.

The first coins were struck in brass about 1184 B. C. and in gold and silver by Phidon, tyrant of Argos, about 662 B. C.

Is the earth made up of three concentric spheres? A physicist says that such is the case. The solid nucleus he supposes to be between 3,000 and 7,000 miles in diameter and this is surrounded by a liquid substratum, outside of which is the crust, variously estimated at 70 to 200 miles in thickness. More than two centuries ago a similar theory, including the slow rotation of the inner solid sphere on a different axis from that of the entire globe was held by Dr. Edmund Halley to account for the changes in the earth's magnetism. The axis of the nucleus was thought to have been originally that of the entire globe and to the change of its course was attributed the deluge. The earth's internal heat, it is now pointed out, may be accounted for by the friction of the differently rotating bodies.

A meteorologist has undertaken the laborious task of measuring the dimensions of raindrops. He finds that the largest are about one-sixth of an inch and the smallest one seven hundredth of an inch in diameter. They are larger in summer than in winter and larger in hot than in cold climates. The size of the drop when it reaches the earth depends on the height from which it has fallen.

Insanity is infrequent in India, according to a bluebook. In Bengal in 1904 the ratio of insane was 2.33 per 1,000 population, against 24.71 in England.

A pulpit that has been consecrated by the British bishop of Carlisle for use in St. Cuthbert's, Carlisle, runs on wheels. It is brought in and taken out of the church by means of a trolley and endless rope. Made of mahogany and over nine feet in height, the pulpit cost $1,000.

A camel begins work at four years old and frequently continues in use for over half a century. It will carry 1,000 pounds on its back, while few horses can carry more than 250 pounds.

Having supported himself as a pedler for seventy-five years, James O'Dwyer of Killmihil, Ireland, who is now 102 years old, has for the first time in his life been compelled to ask for relief from the Kilrush board of guardians.

When Lord Curzon was appointed viceroy of India, the post recently vacated, he completed one of the dreams of his school days. From the time he first knew that Government House, Calcutta, was a facsimile of his ancestral home, Kedleston Hall, near Derby, he desired to occupy it as governor general of India.

BUSINESS MEN

ON WARPATH
Go Out After Funds for Y. M. C. A. Work.
A SYSTEMATIC CAMPAIGN
Workers Go Out Two by Two and Some Will Devote Entire Two Days to Task.

The business men of the city are on the warpath. This (Wednesday) evening will mark the close of the first day's canvass for the $5,000 to be raised in two days for the support of the Y. M. C. A. during the present year.

So far the reports received are encouraging. All of the men who reported at the association building this (Wednesday) noon had either a good bunch of cash or a handful of pledges. A large number of the business men whose names appeared on the committees did not appear at their places of business this (Wednesday) morning, but started out on the canvass bright and early and left word that they would not be in until Thursday.

The local association building presented a busy scene this (Wednesday) morning. Both Secretary Wilson and General Chairman J. P. Clement were at the building bright and early and from that time on they have had their hands full. The special telephone placed in the building to facilitate the work has been doing its share of imparting information.

Most of the committees started out this morning in pairs. In the first place a card list was made of all of the men of the city who were thought to be able to help the association regardless of whether they had ever given anything before or not. This list of names was divided into ten equal parts and each one of the 10 chairmen of the committees was given an equal number of these names. The chairman in turn divided the names among the 10 men on his committee so that each one of the 100 canvassers has a defined list of people who he will visit during the two days.

This (Wednesday) noon a luncheon was served at the Y. M. C. A. to the chairmen and members of the committees. At this time a general report of the work up to date was received. The men will meet at the association building again this evening. On Thursday another luncheon will be served. Thursday evening it is thought that a final meeting will be held at which time final reports will be received.

The first half day's work was well up to expectations and if the canvass is as successful for the remainder of the time there will be little difficulty in getting the required amount.

Great Bargain! Million Off! You Can Buy Schwab's Three Million Dollar Palace Now For Only Two Million.

CHARLES M. SCHWAB'S NEW PALACE ON RIVERSIDE DRIVE, N.Y. NOW FOR SALE.

NEW YORK, June 5.—Hardly is the plaster dry on Chas. M. Schwab's $3,000,000 palace on Riverside drive and he wants to sell it. You can have it for an even $2,000,000 if you speak quickly. Some estimates place the cost of this beautiful mansion at $3,500,000—and it's as good as new. The building of the palace has taken a long time and the costly and expediting operation has gone on Mr. Schwab's nerves to such an extent that he is already tired of it, and is anxiously seeking a purchaser.

Fashionables Make Annual New York Coaching Parade in Central Park a Brilliant Scene of Gaiety.

THE ALFRED VANDERBILT COACH, FROM PHOTOGRAPH BY DONCOURT STAFF PHOTOGRAPHER OF THE NEWSPAPER ENTERPRISE ASSOCIATION.

New York's annual coaching parade is becoming a regular date in its fashionable life. This year's scene in Central Park was a brilliant one. The photograph shows Alfred Vanderbilt's coach waiting for the remainder of his party to come up. This coach attracted the most attention from the great crowds that watched the parade. Mr. Vanderbilt is driving and seated beside him is his wife. The young woman on the rear seat is Miss Gladys Vanderbilt.

FOULARD SILK IN USEFUL GOWN.

Foulard silks vie with linens for popularity for constant wear this season. They do for all occasions, being simple enough for the morning, or dressy for afternoon events. A handsome costume of this silk is made on the princess model. The color is a deep cream with large double rings pale blue. Violet ribbon in the same shade is used as trimming, while revers of ecru lace are on the corsage. The gown escapes the ground and has a yoke of batiste. This soft material is also in the sleeves, which end in a band of blue velvet. Blue feathers and blue ribbon are the decorations of the hat. This is made of ecru crin and is high in the crown and broad in the rim.

CHANGE IN FIRE DEPARTMENT. (Special to The Evening Telegraph.) ANN ARBOR, Mich., June 5.—There was an upheaval in the fire department when Chief Edwards was relegated to the sixth ward engine house and Charles Andrews, who has been with the department for some time, was made chief. Henry McLaren, who was deposed some time ago, was reinstated as superintendent of the horses.

QUESTION RIGHT TO HOLD INSURANCE

Other Agencies Petition Board of Education as to Mr. Garrett's Policy—Matter Left Open.

Acting upon the opinion given it by Attorney E. M. Irish, the board of education Tuesday night at its regular monthly meeting decided to look into the matter of insurance in force on school property in this district. A complete schedule of all insurance in force has been asked for, to show where the policies are held. The action was brought about by a petition from a number of insurance agencies here, asking that the insurance on the new Portage street school building be divided among them. Charles E. Garrett, a trustee, represents a number of companies having insurance on school property, and the opinion of Col. Irish is that it is unlawful for any school trustee to enter into any contract with the board. Mr. Garrett has sold the board insurance for years, and it is the claim of members that he has always been able to offer a lower rate than any other agent. The matter of the Portage street building came about through the contractor's insurance. He held a building policy and had taken a long term in order to secure the lower rate. When his work was completed, the premium on his policy was prorated on the new policy. The members of the board are not inclined to take a serious view of the situation. N. H. Stewart in speaking of the matter said this Wednesday morning, "If the law prohibits us from securing the benefit of the saving in insurance rates, because the man offering it is a member of the board, then so be it. Mr. Garrett has saved the district, and for that matter the entire city, many dollars in insurance. To him is due the credit for keeping the rate down. If his policies are cancelled because it is illegal for him to hold them as a member of the board, it will result in our paying double the rate."

GIVES NO PARADE

When Barnum & Bailey's Circus Comes Usual Pageant Will Be Missed.

When Barnum & Bailey's circus comes to town on Monday, June 24, one of the most popular features of its former visits will be missed. It is the parade. The big show, a pioneer in many lines, has been the first to abolish the parade. Press Representative James DeWolf gives the reasons for the elimination of the parade as follows: "The Barnum & Bailey show is too big to give a parade. It does not need a parade to advertise itself. Moreover it takes so much time to unload its five trains of cars and set up its big tents that if a parade were given the performances would often be late. The parade takes the men away from the grounds just when they are most needed there to complete the preparations for the show. The elimination of the parade enables us to give a better performance, for horses, elephants and performers are always fresh, and do not go into the ring all tired out from the long march about town."

DR. BOSMAN TO LEAVE FOR LONG TRIP ABROAD

With His Father and Brother He Will Sail During Latter Part of This Month.

About June 23 Dr. J. W. Bosman will leave here for an extended trip abroad. It will be his first real vacation in years and the details of the journey, now being arranged, point to a trip of extreme pleasure for this busy physician. Dr. Bosman will accompany his father, of Holland, and an older brother, Benjamin. It had been hoped that the third son would also be one of the party, but he has found it impossible to leave. The sons will go as the guests of their father and the elder Mr. Bosman will point out to his sons the former parental home in the Netherlands, which he left years ago. The party will go to Detroit and from there to Montreal. The trip will be made up the St. Lawrence and they will ship from the Canadian port for Liverpool. They will visit Glasgow and Edinburgh, London and possibly Dublin. They also expect to spend some time in Berlin and will be for several weeks in the Netherlands. From there they will visit France, Spain and Italy touching all the points of interest and making the journey in a leisurely fashion. The exact date of Dr. Bosman's departure has not been fixed definitely, but he thinks it will be by June 23.

Kalamazoo Delegates

To the Municipal League Convention in Detroit.

Kalamazoo will shine at the annual municipal convention of the state, to be held in Detroit on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. The following city officials will go as delegates: City Engineer Johnston, Aldermen Gilbert, Ten Busschen and Little. Mayor Thompson has not yet decided whether he will attend the meeting or not. William G. Austin of this city is one of the directors of the league. None of the Kalamazoo delegates appear on the program, although it is expected that they will take an active part in the meeting.

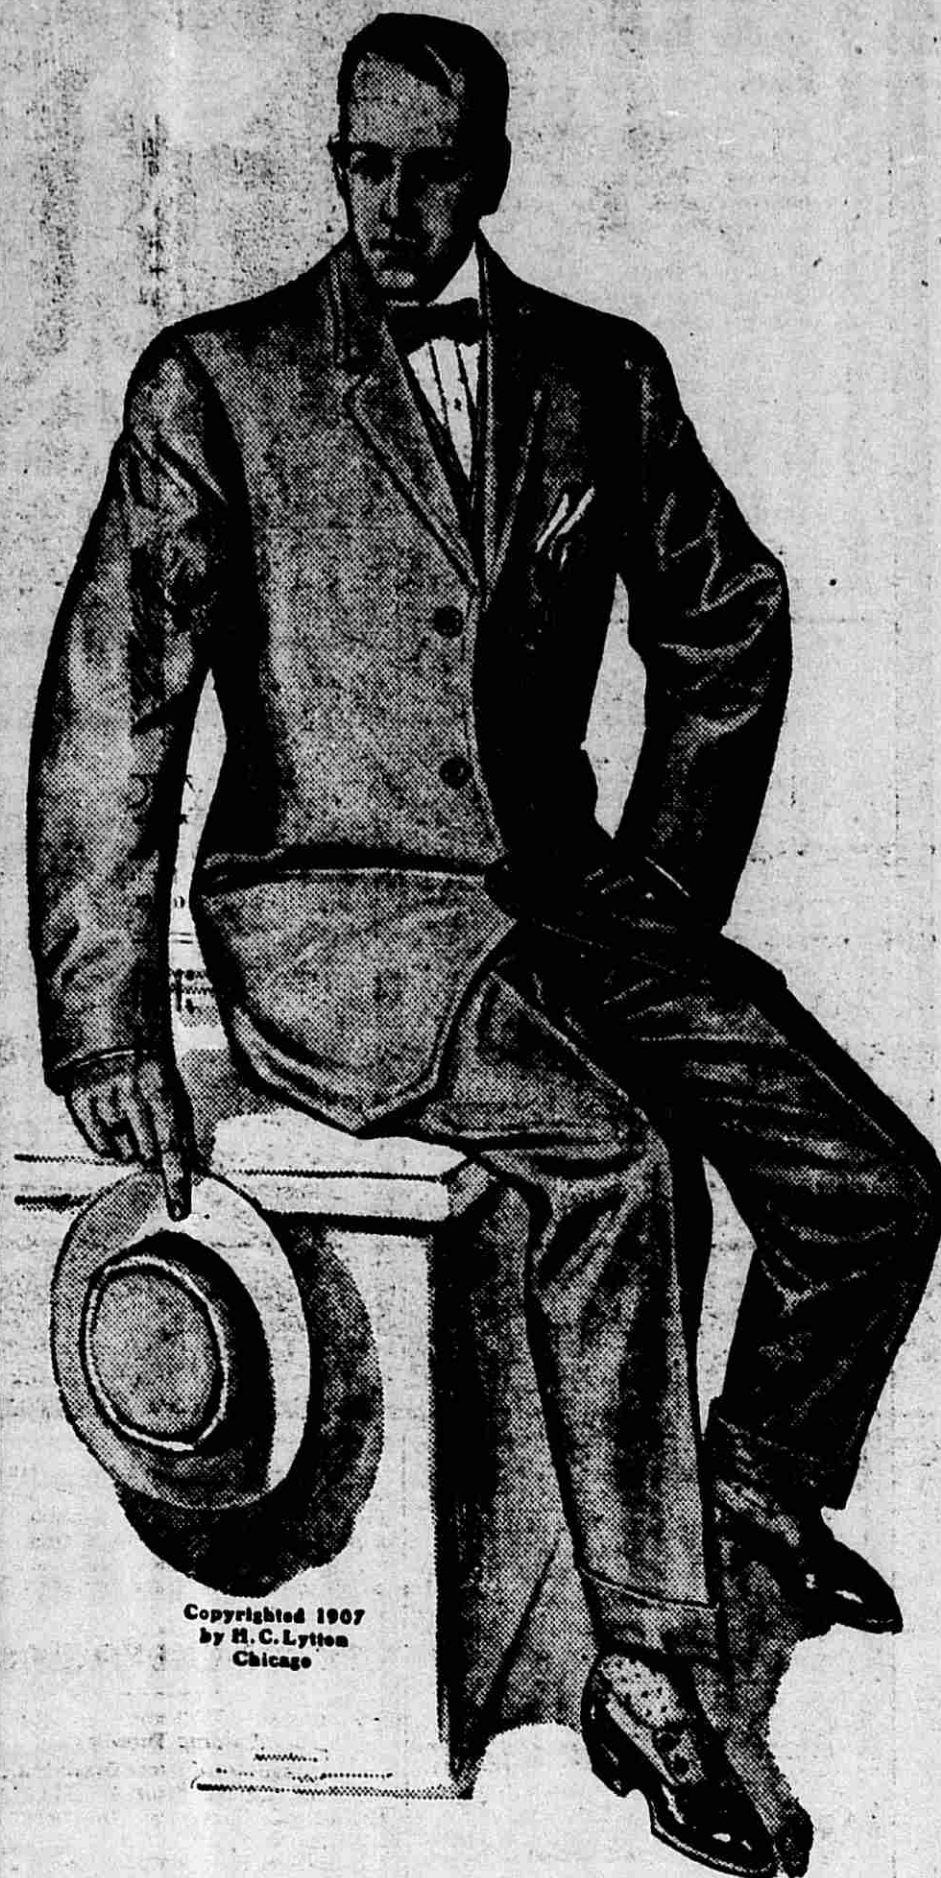

Detroit is making great plans to give the delegates a royal reception and it is expected that the meeting will be bigger and better than ever. The Kalamazoo delegates will take this opportunity to look into the street car question not only in Michigan, but in municipalities all over the country. If some of the delegates cannot go it is the intention of Mayor Thompson to appoint others to take their places so that the city will have a full representation of delegates.

State Association

Will Be Boosted by the Local Society With the Long Name.

The last meeting of the season for the society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children and Animals, was held at the court house Tuesday evening. The matter of forming a state association was discussed and it was decided to send a delegate to Grand Rapids the summer when a meeting for that purpose will be held in the furniture city. The matter of over-checking horses was brought up and all of the members will watch out for this evil. Other
